Wilton objects to changes

by DENISE ANN STRZALKA
Lakeland Newspapers

Mayor Robert Wilton is objecting to reorganization of personnel within the Antioch Police Dept.

In executive session at the village board meeting Monday night, trustees agreed to Chief Charles Miller's personnel assignments.

Chief Miller had asked the village board to approve the appointment of Lt. Charles Watkins as Lieutenant Administrator, second in command, and Lt. Tom Fisher as Head of Investigations.

"I'm objecting to taking an officer away from patrolling the street, who has been on the police force for 17 years, and placing him inside the station behind a desk. If the officer is paid $38,000 a year, the village would now have a net loss of $38,000, because an experienced officer is taken from the streets and not replaced," Wilton said.

Trustee Donald Amundsen made the motion to approve Chief Miller's reappointments and Trustee Marilyn Shineflug seconded the motion. The motion carried with a 4-1 vote, with Trustee Larry Hanson casting the lone "no" vote.

Mayor Wilton said he would veto this motion at the village board meeting next week. "This is something I campaigned on, too many people working in the department. I took the lieutenants and put them on the street on different shifts," he said.

According to Mayor Wilton, before he came into office, Lts. Watkins and Fisher both worked full time in administrative positions on the day shift. Then when Wilton came into office, the village board agreed to reappoint Lt. Watkins to second shift Lieutenant and Lt. Fisher as first shift Lieutenant, and both were assigned to patrol the streets rather than sitting behind a desk shuffling paperwork. This action was taken to save taxpayers' dollars and give the community added police protection, he said.

"Miller said this arrangement isn't working. It won't work unless you want it to work. Don't have to tell me Miller isn't doing his job," Mayor Wilton said.

Due to pending litigations, Chief Miller has been advised by his attorney not to comment on allegations made (Continued on Page 7)

Typical Lake County August scene substantiates the famous claim by WW1 poet Joyce Kilmer that 'Only God can make a tree.' The early spring and summer rains, plus the August humidity, have kept the flora in Lake county lush and green, while many of summer's flowers continue to bloom. — Photo by Gloria Davis.

Mundelein boundary change irks Fox Lake

Fox Lake officials have objected to the method used by Northern Illinois Planning Commission(NIPC) to notify interested parties in Facility Planning Agency(FPA) hearings.

They said Mundelein was granted a boundary request change which would "cost" the North West Sewer Dist. 1,600 acres with no input from Fox Lake, Lake Villa or Antioch.

Mundelein also was granted a change, it was reported, that would transfer approximately 1,500 acres out of the North East FPA.

Both boundary changes were opposed by the Lake County Board represented by Dist. 3 Rep. Eleanor Rostron.

Fox Lake was alerted to the change by Dist. 4 Rep. Suzi Schmidt.

Trustee Rich Bayne, chairman of the Fox

Lake sewer and water committee, said the North West district cannot afford to lose territory. Growth projections and future income projections are based on a land mass determined when the district was established under auspices of Lake County Public Works.

"What the hell is going on here?" exploded Fox Lake Trustee Kenneth Hamsher. "How come we don't know about these things?"

Both Village Clerk/ Adm. Asst. Sue McNally and Water and Sewer Supt. Rick Leber affirmed that Fox Lake was never notified about the Mundelein request and subsequent hearing.

Besides contacting Antioch and Lake Villa officials, the Fox Lake council plans to appeal to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Fox Lake teen charged in accident

According to the Lake County Sheriff's Dept., a Fox Lake teenager has been charged with failure to yield at an intersection in an accident that left one Antioch woman injured.

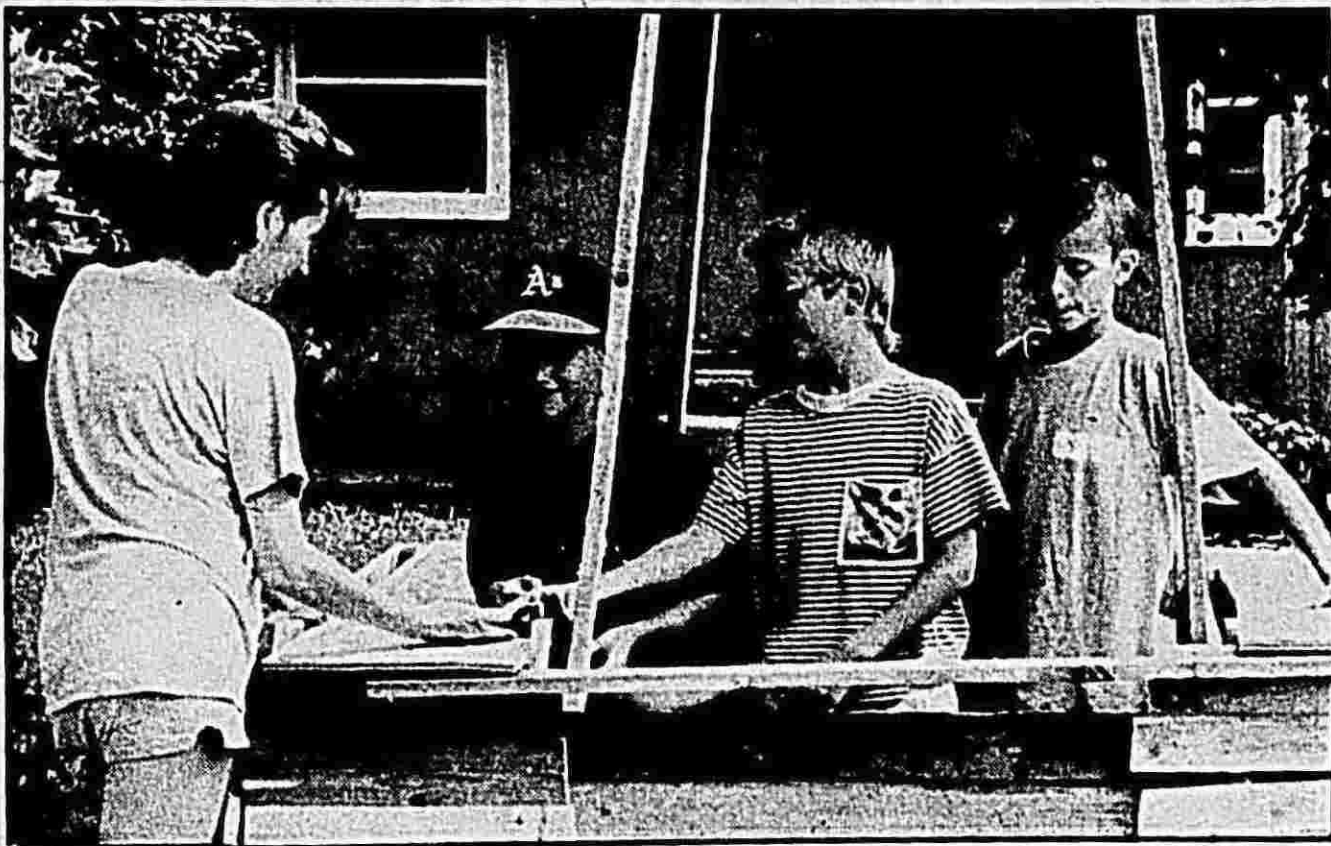

The accident occurred on North Ave. east of Deep Lake Rd. in Antioch Township.

Ryan Cole, 18, was driving a dump truck and accelerating from the stop sign on Deep Lake Rd. and making a right turn when the car driven by Robyn Dituto, 25, of Antioch ran into the dump truck from behind, according to the Sheriff department's report.

The Antioch Rescue Squad took Dituto to St. Therese Medical Center in Waukegan. Reportedly, she was not wearing a seat belt.

Cole was uninjured. He was also charged with failure to provide proof of insurance.

Mundelein entrepreneurs

Three Mundelein entrepreneurs built their own hot dog stand last week in a subdivision off Midlothian Rd. The three and Willie Kopke scrounged the neighborhood for wood to build the structure. Waiting on customer Mary Kildew are the three builders, from left, Terry Beller, Matt Hermann and Cliff Hermann.

Lake County At A Glance

Hurt in dive

WONDER LAKE — Robert Bunday, 23, Wonder Lake was in satisfactory condition at Froedert Memorial Lutheran Hospital in Milwaukee where he was taken by the Flight For Life helicopter suffering from neck and spinal injuries incurred when he dove into shallow water in the Chain O'Lakes. The dive took place just south of the North Point area, between Lake Catherine and Channel Lake on Saturday. According to the Lake County Sheriff's report, Bunday dove into shallow water on a sand bar carrying an anchor in his hand to place in the water to hold a friend's boat.

RV - Van Show

LAKE COUNTY — The Seventh Annual Lake County RV and Van Show will be held at the Lake County Fairgrounds in Grayslake, Rtes. 45 and 120, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily, from Aug. 22-26. This will be the largest gathering of motorhomes, travel trailers, fold down campers and van conversions ever in the State of Illinois. Fuel economy will be one of the highlights of this year's show.

Officer election

WADSWORTH—The election of 1991 officers for the Lake County Association of Realtors will be held Friday, Sept. 7, at Midlane Country Club. Candidates are: Eve B. Lee of Eve B. Lee and Associates, Grayslake, for president; Alex F. March of Baird & Warner, Liber-tyville, for first vice-president; David L. Fales of Re/Max Advantage, Antioch for second vice-president; Mary Ann Bystol of First United REALTORS®, Mundelein, for treasurer; Victor A. Rigoni III of Hometrust REALTORS®, Antioch, for secretary; Otto H. Sprenger of Sprenger Real Estate, Antioch for 1990 director; and Gwen Broughton, Thomas Cavalier, Scott S. Lackie, Michael Lescher and Joan Routledge for 1991-92 directors.

Groundbreaking

WAUKEGAN—A Safe Place, a provider of a comprehensive program to eliminate domestic violence, will hold ground breaking ceremonies for its new shelter Aug. 30. The new 14,000 sq. ft. building, scheduled for completion July 1, 1991, will be built on a parcel of land in northern Waukegan donated by the family YMCA of Lake County. The new facility will accommodate 30 women and children, a substantial increase over the 18 women and children the shelter can currently house.

Blast petition efforts

VERNON HILLS—Vernon Hills village board members who support a Nov. 6 referendum to change the Countryside Fire Dept. were blasted for not being credible. Countryside Fire Protection Dist. Trustee Paul Manahan chided tactics of those who favor having the trustees be elected. Petitions to have the issue on the November ballot were delivered to Vernon Hills Village Clerk Kathy Ryg on Monday.

OK Cuneo pact

WAUKEGAN—A negotiated Cuneo Estate compromise survived two hours of debate and parliamentary argument at the Lake County Forest Preserve meeting Friday. Forest Preserve members voted 15-5 with two members voting "present" to support the compromise. It includes 62 acres of open space, a trail system around the perimeter of the land, reduced density for the planned Corley Development and a 300-acre golf course. Board members Carol Calebresa and Andrea Moore of Dist. 5 used maps to explain the land use plans for the Cuneo Estate, located off Rte. 21 in Libertyville Twp. There would be an intergovernmental agreement.

Mart OK'd

FOX LAKE—To the chagrin of more than 30 opponents in the audience, village trustees voted 5-1 to approve rezoning of property adjacent to a resort condominium complex for a gasoline station and convenience mini-mart. The opponents, residents of Vacation Village, said more business is not needed and that a gasoline station will destroy the character of their neighborhood.

Pick new D.A.

WAUKEGAN—Chief assistant Lake County Dist. Atty. Michael J. Waller is expected to be named county district attorney next week to succeed Fred Foreman, who has been elevated to federal district attorney for northern Illinois. A special meeting of the Lake County Board will be held Tuesday, Aug. 28, to confirm Waller's appointment.

Study new school

LIBERTYVILLE—Thirteen members have been named to a school board advisory committee studying the expansion of Libertyville High School. The committee will make a recommendation by mid-October about expanding the current high school for as little as $18 million, building a new freshman-sophomore building the main campus for $26 million or constructing an entirely new building on one of two other sites for $40 million. Taxpayers will be asked next year to approve building bonds.

26 want chief's job

MUNDELEIN—Twenty-six persons have applied for the job of fire chief vacated last spring by the sudden departure of Edward Kalasa. Resumes have been received from as far away as Florida. Included among the applicants are members of the Mundelein Fire Dept., including Acting Chief Randy Justus. A selection will be made by mid-September.

Extend hours

WAUKEGAN—The second installment of 1989 Real Estate taxes is due on Sept. 4, 1989. The Lake County Treasurer's office will have extended hours on the following days: 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, Sept. 2 and 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Taxes may also be paid by mail or any Lake County bank. The Lake County Treasurer's office is located in the Lake County Building in Waukegan.

Teens race for BMX bike track in Antioch

by DENISE ANN STRZALKA
Lakeland Newspapers

Antioch youngsters are eagerly awaiting an answer to their prayers for a BMX bike track.

Two weeks ago 16 young boys, between the ages of 7 to 16, asked the village board if it would build a BMX bike track for them in Antioch, because they have no place to ride their bikes.

The group representatives, Chris Katzel and Andy Sassano, Antioch, said, "We are not able to ride or jump our bikes on the sidewalks, because we can get a fine. All the jumps we have made get plowed down everytime we build them by the village's public works department. The village tells us to stay on the streets, but the motorists don't want us on the streets."

The boys' recent dirt hill jump was behind Jewel and was plowed down by the village because a little girl got hurt. There is another one located along side the parking lot of the Antioch Evangelical Free Church off of Highview. The boys are told quite often to vacate the premises because the church doesn't want to be held responsible is something should happen. All these problems want to be avoided, which is why these youngsters are asking for a track.

According to these boys, there are about 60 children that come from the surrounding communities, such as Lindenhurst, Lake Villa, Grayslake, Round Lake Beach and some even further to ride and race their bikes in Antioch.

The boys said they wanted an exact track like the BMX track in Rockford. They all came with input on its descriptions, such as, "It's pretty big. It's flat with hills and it's banked around the corners. It also has obstacles to jump with our bikes."

The village told the boys the proposal would have to be presented to the Parks and Recreation Board, for consideration, before the village board could approval or disapprove of the track.

After the presentation to the park board last week, Bruce Bartoz, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Board, said, "We are not opposed to the idea, but we are not making any commitments."

Bartoz said all the anticipated problems, such as insurance and cost factors have to be investigated before a decision can be made. Park Dept. Dir. Theresa Weber is currently obtaining the cost figures, so the boys should have an answer soon.

Two other BMX bicyclers Sam Porstner and Brian Moore, said if the park department builds a BMX race track, not just a regular track, the American Bike Assn. will cover the insurance end of the track.

Checking into the liability factor is the park and recreation board's main priority. Bartoz said the board has to look into whether the ABA Assn. can be liable for the insurance since the property would be owned by the village, which makes it public property where it is not limited to serving a particular group of village residents.

Cheerleaders at camp

Antioch Community High School varsity and sophomore cheerleading squads attended summer camp at Northern Illinois University, which was sponsored by the Universal Cheerleading Assn. Varsity cheerleader Tami Weber was elected to the U.C.A. All Star Team and was invited to participate in the Lord Mayor's New Years Parade in London, England. Varsity cheerleaders who attended the camp included (front row, from left) Kim Weber, Erin Stevens, (second row, from left) April Haley Kendra Casey, captain, Kelly Burbridge, (third row, from left) Amy Jester, Debi McNeany, Debbie Apostolou, Tami Weber, (back row, front left) Becky Ward, Tina Verley and Crystal Cox.

BMX bicycle jumping

Sam Porstner and Brian Moore enjoy bicycling and jumping their BMX bikes, because it's a recreational activity that keeps them out of trouble. However, these boys, and quite a few others, are having problems enjoying the bike riding sport. The Village of Antioch doesn't want them doing their bicycle acrobatics on the sidewalks, motorists don't want them riding on the streets and the Public Works Dept. plows down their dirt jump-hills. All these boys want is a BMX bike track. Currently, the Antioch Parks and Recreation Dept. is inquiring into the insurance costs for the project.—Photo by Denise Ann Strzalka

Lizard: 'Bingo players should have more fun'

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380
Lighten Up

How many of you out there are under the impression that people go to bingo to have a good time? I certainly was. To me, this would be my first reason for going and if I won a little money to boot, I would consider that frosting on the cake. However, the bingo experiences on and off through the years have proved me wrong once again. I think a lot of people who go to bingo go to torment the people who are there to have a fun evening, and if a person is there having fun and also dares to win a round of bingo, look out! Now, folks, don't get angry at the Lizard. I didn't say everyone does this I said a lot of people do. Recently I went to bingo with a group of friends. I won't mention when, where, or with whom. There was six of us, so the first feat was to find six seats together. After we secured our six seats we reserved them with our jackets, cans of pop, and bingo supplies placed in fellow bingo player had pushed our items down a bit as she need room for her 5,000 bingo cards.

Hometown Goodies

front of them. Next we went to purchase our game cards. upon returning to our seats, we found that a

So we each squeezed our seven cards in front of us, taped them down, and assumed the look of outcasts. We had about 20 minutes to kill until the official calling would begin, so we decided to engage in some friendly conversation. A person sitting behind us, whose chair butted up against ours decided to get up and found it difficult because of the close quarters. Instead of asking one of us to please move in a little she yelled out "in" and slammed her chair into ours. That should have made us angry. Instead it made us give way to laughter, which in turn made her even angrier. So now the game began.

We didn't realize we were suppose to sit there bored and totally quiet. As we placed the chips on our various numbers we also chit chatted with each other. Well if looks could kill, I'll tell you right her and now I'd be gone and you wouldn't be reading this column. On the (X) game a lovely elderly lady sitting at our table only needed one number to win. So we began to root for her and cheer her on. When they called her number, all six of us yelled bingo with her. She was tickled pink and was having fun right along with us. We even teased her about taking us out for a bite to eat on her winnings.

Her good and kind ways of having patience and fun with us paid off and she won a second round of bingo. Once again we were so happy for her and began to make plans for new found fortune. The mean people or maybe I should say the jealous people in the crowd gave us more angry looks and gestures. The evening finally ended. We did get out of there alive, but my advice to some bingo players is "Lighten up," "Go with the flow" and you too may actually end up having a little fun playing bingo. Remember, people, "Laughter is the best medicine of all."

Engagement
Grandma and grandpa, Vivian and Rudy Brausam, are very excited over the recent engagement of their grandson, Lane Veremyan. Lane is the first of their grandchildren to have wedding plans and they want to congratulate Lane and his fiancé, Julie Montesanto on their engagement. At the present time, Lane and Julie are planning a 1991 wedding and I am counting on Vivian to let us know the date when it is officially set. If you want my advice, kids, March, April, May or September, October, November are the best months for a wedding. June, July and August are too hot, and December, January, and February are too cold. So alright, I'm bossy!

Belated Birthday

Speaking of Rudy and Vivian, their son, Don Brausam celebrated his birthday on Aug. 19. Therefore, happy belated birthday wishes are in order to Don from Lizard and readers.

Happy Anniversary

Did you ever notice your "so-called" friends do you in more than anything or anyone? That's right, folks, my friends know I write this column. Right again, they also know how much I enjoy putting in special birthday and anniversary wishes. Does this "inspire" them to contact me with he special moments in their lives? No way Jose! However, once again, better late than never. I'd like to wish Julie and Gary Groh a "belated" happy anniversary. Julie and Gary celebrated their special day on Aug. 1 with an evening excursion to Great America. This was a special anniversary for them as it marked 20 years of wedded bliss. Hope you guys had fun at Great America and I hope that next July 15 I am reminded about your Aug. 1 anniversary.

Returning Fads

My husband is a saver of items. Once he latches onto something, it is like pulling teeth to get him to part with it. No matter how out dated the item becomes or how little it is used, he just keeps it "in case." I, on the other hand, am constantly tossing things out. However, this little quirk of mine has left me

"kicking" myself many times. Especially in the area of clothing. When the fad goes out I toss it only to see it re-surface five to 10 years down the road. Recently I've noticed two acquaintances of mine namely, Ardeen Harris, and Judy Hansen wearing some really neat looking t-shirts all decorated in colored sequins. It is like turning back the clock about 12 to 14 years as I remember my oldest daughter, as a young teenager, making t-shirts into works of art by sewing on sequins and beads to all sorts of designs. She did a great job too. In fact she'd sell the shirts for a profit in order to earn a little pocket money.

Therefore, when I saw Judy and Ardeen wearing their brightly colored shirts I regretted tossing those shirts so beautifully crafted by my daughter. Had I saved them, I too could have been part of the recent fad. I asked Judy how she would launder the shirt. She decided to wear it until it gets dirty and throw it away. If you do that, Judy, toss it may way. It sure was pretty and it sure brought back fond memories of the past.

That's All Folks

Well, folks, that's it. Soon the little and big darlings will be back in school. Soon I will be back to keeping you posted as to all of the exciting happenings of our local schools. That reminds me a congratulation is in order for Matt Tabar, the new superintendent of Emmons School. Matt replaced Jill Ballock and has a hard act to follow. However, once again, it looks like Emmons is in good hands.

Certification

Christine Nyholm of Antioch, received her Referral and Relocation Certification at the Women's Council of Realtors referral and relocation courses in Oak Brook. Nyholm, who currently is employed at RE/MAX Realty in Antioch, completed two full days of extensive courses which covered basic technical information and business strategies.

Subdivision's drainage problems will wash away

by DENISE ANN STRZALKA
Lakeland Newspapers

Chesney Shores subdivision in Lake Villa Twp. will soon wash away its drainage problem.

Due to the elevation of the subdivision, Chesney Shores has been experiencing a lot of flooding from rain waters that drain down from Rte. 59 onto Academy Crt. and from Fox Lake, which rises during large rainfalls, causing the water to run onto Columbia Bay Dr.

Within the subdivision, mainly on the east side of Academy Crt. and Columbia Bay Dr., there is no proper drainage system to disperse of the storm waters.

Sherry Shultz, a Chesney Shores homeowner, has coordinated the efforts for drainage work to be done within the subdivision. She went to the township and asked for its assistance and the township responded by sponsoring a $85,000 grant for the work to be done. The Chesney Shores Homeowner Assn. has also donated money for the drainage work.

Devery Engineering Inc. will be doing the drainage work and has estimated it should only take a year to complete. Engineer Robert Devery said pipes will be installed underground, under homeowners' easements and on the ground surface above the pipes there will be ditches. He said, "Homeowners can expect the roadside in front of their homes to pretty much look like the west side when the work is finished."

According to Devery, the rain waters and lake waters will drain into the storm sewers and the subdivision's drainage problem should be solved.

No date has been given at this time for when the actual work will begin.

Round Lake needs representation: Edwards

Democratic candidate for Lake County Board District 4 Julia E. Edwards wants to know why there is little representation for the Round Lake Area on the county board. In an area of 20,000 plus (based on 1980 census figures), she feels there is certainly more representation required.

"The Round Lake Area is a very nice area with a an awful lot to offer its residents and needs to have better representation on the board," said Edwards.

In looking at the Lake County directory of 1989 put out by the county board, she asks why the "Community Development Commission" has no Round Lake Area representation on the mayor side of the commission; however, there is one person on the citizen side of that committee from the Round Lake Area and feels this is a step in the right direction.

Edwards also asks why there is no Round Lake area representation on the "Economic Development Commission." She feels that these are two committees where there is certainly a need for representation from the Round Lake Area.

HEEL PAIN

A heel spur is a boney growth on the underside of the heel bone. This growth appears in response to an abnormal pull from the ligament that runs through the arch. Other factors that indicate spurs are long term standing on hard surfaces. A bursitis usually co-exists with a spur and is what causes the pain. Treatment consists of custom made arch supports, called orthotics, that relieve the tension on the ligament and pads the heel area. Surgery is rarely indicated.

If you have the above symptoms or any other foot discomfort, you may contact Dr. Winters for a NO COST CONSULTATION to see if there may be an answer to your foot pain.

Lake Villa ponders annexation questions

by DENISE ANN STRZALKA
Lakeland Newspapers

Lake Villa would not interfere by forcing annexation on Venetian Village or West Miltmore if the towns do decide to incorporate themselves into villages.

Mayor Joyce Frayer said the only land Lake Villa wants to annex at this time is any property west of Rte. 83, which is where West Miltmore is located. "At this point we would annex them unless West Miltmore wanted to be annexed," she said.

A year and a half ago, Gene Morris, a homeowner, went around collecting signatures for a petition that called for Lake Villa to consider annexing West Miltmore and Venetian Village. The petition was presented to the village and the village asked that the petition be presented to the presidents of the homeowners associations for acceptance first, then brought back for consideration. However, that was the last Lake Villa ever heard of the petition for annexation, according to Mayor Frayer.

Since these towns are considering incorporation due to rumors that the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) will eventually design an ordinance that no longer allows septic tanks, due to environmental reasons, the homeowners fear West Miltmore and Venetian Village will be forced to annex into Lake Villa, Lindenhurst or Round Lake Beach for sewer hook up.

According to the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission's sewer district map, Lindenhurst would service Venetian Village.

Since Lindenhurst would be more likely to annex Venetian Village, Mayor Frayer said, "Lake Villa could only consider annexation if the sewer district map's boundaries were changed or we annex them in and Lindenhurst still provides sewer service. This is the only way I could see annexation happening, if Venetian Village wanted to be annexed into Lake Villa."

If West Miltmore proceeds with incorporation procedures it is doubtful that Lake Villa would contest this action as neighboring towns in Elh Twp. are doing right now in the cause of Gilmer.

Mayor Frayer said Lake Villa would not interfere with West Miltmore's plans unless the general consensus among residents within the village was annexation. "Rather than create another village, the village board would wait for responses on how our residents felt," she said.

Verley wins Miss Lindenhurst crown

by BECKY JOHNS
Lakeland Newspapers

A large and loudly appreciative crowd gathered at Lindenfest Aug. 15 to watch the crowning of Miss Lindenhurst 1990, Tina Verley.

First Runner-Up was Tracy Most, and Miss Congeniality was Lisa Habermass.

For the first time this year, three other awards were added to the list: Prettiest Hair, Prettiest Smile, and Best Modeling. Rena Jacobsen won both Prettiest Hair and Smile, and Julie Skrypnik won Best Modeling.

"I was in a daze," said Verley. "I'm very excited. I'm excited to meet all the new people throughout the year."

The new Miss Lindenhurst, age 17, is the daughter of William and Carol Verley and is a senior at Antioch Community High School. She is also the business manager for the Tom-Tom, the Antioch High School newspaper. Her future plans include studying journalism at Southern Illinois University, working for a large newspaper and eventually in broadcasting.

"I decided to run for Miss Lindenhurst on July 2, on my birthday as a matter of fact. My friends gave me an application in a box with my birthday presents. I've had a lot of support from my friends," Verley said.

Her duties as the reigning queen begin on Saturday with the Lindenfest parade and the dunk tank on Sunday. She will also attend such functions as the lighting of the Christmas tree, the visits of the Easter bunny, the opening of new businesses, and of course, the 1991 Miss Lake County Fair pageant.

First Runner-Up Tracy Most is a 19-year-old sophomore currently studying at the College of Lake County. She plans to transfer to the University of Illinois and major in accounting.

"I think the pageant went really well," said Miss Lindenhurst 1989 Lynn Larsen, whose farewell to the Village of Lindenhurst included singing "One Moment in Time." "These are really the best girls I've had to work with and I've been with the pageant three years."

The emcee for the evening was Village Trustee Jim Betustak. Alice Brownlee, director of both the Lake Villa and Miss Lake County pageants, was the director of the Lindenhurst pageant for the first time this year.

against him. However, he said, "The mayor has no grounds for his accusations, there has been nor will there ever be."

Mayor Wilton estimates the result from removing two Lieutenants from patrol duty will be a $75,000 a year lose in patrolling the residential, commercial and industrial areas of the village and administration costs will double. "Citizens and businesses will suffer, because they will be less protected. It will just get worse if the police department keeps taking officers off the streets," he said.

Village Atty. Kenneth Clark said he didn't think the mayor could legally veto the motions since the motion did not require village funds or property. Mayor Wilton said all the village board needs is a two thirds vote to override his veto and it has that with its 4-1 from Monday night. The mayor just wants the records to show he opposes the reappointments. "I think having a chief and two Lieutenants in administration is a waste of taxpayers' dollars," he said.

Antioch fears forest preserve tactics

DENISE ANN STRZALKA
Lakeland Newspapers

Antioch's nightmare of land acquisitions by the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. within the township could become a reality for the village.

The Antioch Twp. Property Owners Assn. informed the village that the Forest Preserve Dist. has intentions of designating more land within the township.

The Ivans Farms, also known as the Bailey Horse Farm, located at 42909 N. Deep Lake Rd., is being considered for designation by the forest preserve, according to Dr. Michael Ivans, owner of the 208-acre farm.

"I am not a willing seller. I have had the land for 39 years and I want to keep it. It is not for sale. You can bet if they get a hold of it and take it off the tax roles Antioch will have a problem," Dr. Ivans said.

Dr. Ivans said he was secretly informed of the designation of his property and confirmed it with Antioch Twp. Supv. Jim Fields. Roger Secrist, president of the Antioch Twp. Property Owners Assn., said when a piece of property is going to be designated by the Forest Preserve Dist. it is discussed in executive session so as to not make it public, as is the case with the Ivans property.

According to Secrist, once the Forest Preserve Dist. designates a piece of property nothing can be done with it, such as selling or developing, because nobody wants to purchase the property if it could be taken away from them at a later date. He knows of one particular case, where a property owner's land had been designated for 11 years. "The Forest Preserve Dist. is confiscating land with a stroke of a pen," Secrist said.

The village fears that with the proposed acquisition of Ray Bender's property, which is 43 acres at Rte. 173 and Deep Lake Rd., and now with the Ivans Farm being considered for designation, the Forest Preserve Dist. can swallow up a bunch of property within the village.

Suzie Schmidt, representative on the Lake County Land Acquisition and Preservation Committee, said, "No specific land has been earmarked by the Forest Preserve Dist. I have heard the conservation department maybe considering some land. Antioch and its residents have given us a clear message that they do not want us there. We will not acquire any land in Antioch unless we have a willing seller."

Dr. Ivans is asking for the village to step in and use its municipal authority to stop the Forest Preserve Dist. "I would like to see the board take legal action, rather than writing a letter," he said.

Trustee Marilyn Shineflug said she will check with Robert Churchill, Republican state representative of the 62nd Dist. (Lake Villa), on state involvement on these issues. Clark also will investigate any actions the village may take against the Forest Preserve Dist.

Sewer study won't hold back growth

The Lindenhurst Board of Trustees reviewed Monday the study on bringing sewer and water to the proposed Emerald Ridge Estates development.

Last week the village board agreed to begin negotiations for annexing the site for the proposed development into the village, but before negotiations can begin a study needed to be done to decide if the village could provide the development with sufficient sewer and water services.

The site of the proposed development is on the southeast side of the village along Grand Ave. bordering Fourth Lake. The current development plan consists of 41 single family lots and two commercial areas, one of which is planned as a banking facility and the other as a three-unit professional building.

The feasible water and sewer study was conducted by Strand and Associates. The findings show that Lindenhurst's sewer plant could handle the sanitary capacity of the 41 lots on the development.

According to Village Adm. Jim Stevens, the consultant suggests that the impellers, which are pump blades, need to be upgraded in the lift stations, which carry the sewage to the plant. The cost for upgrading the lift blades is $2,000 and with two lift stations having the blades, the total cost will be $4,000.

"Nothing is definite at this time, but it is being assumed the developer, Emerald Ridge Joint Ventures, will pay the expenses," Stevens said.

As far as adequate water supply for the development, the study shows there is more than enough water that can be supplied by the village for domestic flow inside each household, but the development is on a minimum borderline for receiving adequate fireflow water.

According to Stevens, this will improve as the village grows, but some kind of arrangement must be worked out now before annexation. Emerald Ridge Joint Venture's next step is to meet with the Lake Villa Fire Dist. and discuss solutions to the problem.

Stevens said the water mains outside the village are not large enough to pump enough water through the fire hydrants in the proposed development. "Firemen wouldn't be able to get enough water pressure out of the fire hydrants to fight fires," he said.

This is no major obstacle to work through, because all of the unincorporated areas in the county don't have fire hydrants. The fire departments have tanks on their vehicles that supply the water.

"All that is probably needed here is a drafting tube, which is a tube that either runs from a lake or a pond that water can be pumped out of. That is why there are ponds in developments, not just for appearance but for fire safety reasons," Stevens said.

After the developer meets with the fire department and discusses the solutions on this matter with the village board, annexation plans will continue. The next step would be a public hearing on authorization to annex the property and a rezoning meeting.

Geick background check authorized

by PAT CHRISTENSEN
Lakeland Newspapers

The appointment of Edward Geick as first director of the Lake County Stormwater Management Committee has been deferred while the board hires an independent auditing firm to conduct a background check on Geick. The board authorized the expenditure, not to exceed $5,000, necessary to do this.

Judy Martini of Spring Grove brought a 150-signature petition to a special meeting last week that she was hoping to give the board before it went into closed session to consider the appointment and interview the candidate, but she was denied, although she was one of the few given the opportunity to speak during the public comments portion of the meeting. Calling Geick "unfit," she urged the board

One question the board did entertain was on how it had conducted the search for a director. Robert Chave, director of planning, called the initial search "exhaustive."

The selection committee was made up of Welton, Eleanor Rostron, a Lake County Board member from Dist. 3 and vice-chairman of the committee; Bill Barrens, assistant county administrator; Vern Swanson, a Deerfield engineer; and Thomas Shuster of the Waukegan Park Dist.

The selection committee, said Chave, conducted a nationwide search for the $59,000 a year job by placing ads in newspapers, magazines and other outlets nationwide. The outlets were the Chicago Tribune, American Public Works Assn.

tions, lets give him a chance," Welton urged.

It is unknown whether the independent auditor will have access to Geick's sealed personnel record, or if Lake Zurich Mayor James Kay and others from Lake Zurich will be allowed to speak personally to the auditor on the matter.

Business fair Oct. 6 at NCCHS

Fair X-Change, Inc. of Waukegan has announced it will sponsor a minority business fair at North Chicago Community High School on Saturday, Oct. 6.

Project Coordinator and Fair X-Change President Fran Crigler of Waukegan called the minority business fair something long overdue for the minority community in Lake County.

"The census effort currently underway in the nation is going to present some really startling statistics for the Lake County area. "Most people don't really have a firm idea as to how the minority population has grown in Lake County, since the last census. What is more important though is that growth means not only an increased population base, but significant consumer dollars. Anytime there is a population of 30,000 to 40,000 consumers in one concentrated area, we are talking about significant consumer purchasing power. In Waukegan, North Chicago and Zion, there are just that many minority consumers and consequently that many consumer dollars," he added.

'If he is innocent of these allegations, lets give him a chance.' Dick Welton, chairman of the Lake County Stormwater Management Committee not to "insult our intelligence," and said that citizens did not want Geick to be appointed. "How can this man control the environment when he can't control his own person?"

"Surely you could find a more professional person for the job," she concluded.

Another resident at the meeting, Bruce Hanson, called for Geick to release Lake Zurich from it's "gag order," and have the details of his work history there brought to the committee in its executive session. "I have reason to believe the village would be willing to do this," he said.

After a few other comments the attorney for the board, Jim Bakk, advised Chairman Dick Welton, mayor of Gurnee, to take no further comment that would open Geick "to character assassination. The allegations on the lawsuit are not appropriate and the board should not receive this type of comment."

Newsletter, American Water Resource Assn.'s Hydata Publication, NaCo Newsletter, Jobs Available, Illinois Municipal Review, International City Manager's Assn. Newsletter, and Engineering News Record.

There were between 22 and 27 applicants for the position from as far away as California, although only four were interviewed by the selection committee before Geick was chosen to bring before the full board for approval.

"We thought we obtained all the information we needed," Welton commented, "but nobody had been aware of the concerns that came up." Welton said that, if Geick failed to pass this second hurdle in his appointment, "the whole process begins again and could take another four to six months." But Welton and other board members are taking a wait-and-see attitude. "If he is innocent of these allega-

Allegations plague appointment efforts

Former Lake Zurich Village Adm. Edward Geick wants to be the first director of the Lake County Stormwater Management Committee. The committee, however, is faced with public concerns over allegations linked to Geick's job performance in Lake Zurich. Geick was forced to resign the job he had held for three years last February. Despite an order restraining all parties from discussing the resignation, Geick blamed the matter on the politics of the new administration.

The mayor of Lake Zurich, James Kay, and members of the village board voted to terminate Geick, but bought out his contract for $30,000 under the terms of a deal arranged by former Lake Zurich Mayor Henry Paulus during his tenure.

While serving as village administrator, Geick was also charged with sexual harassment by several female employees.

One of the employees, Sharon Morris, former parks and recreation director, made such specific charges that, although Geick denied them, the village settled with Morris for $85,000, including $15,000 in back pay. Geick left office the same month that this deal was worked out.

Geick was under fire in the village for refusing to follow orders, pursuing his own agenda, and instituting an aggressive growth program.

Geick reportedly told his next employer, the city of Elkhorn, that he was resigning his two-month-old post as city administrator because he had accepted a new job in Lake County. What Geick was specifically referring to is not known, but if it was the director's job with the Lake County Stormwater Management Committee, he may have been premature.

Time to ask Dick!

Like a "closet cousin" who shows up at meal time unexpectedly, Edward Geick is back in Lake County. Geick, the former Lake Zurich village administrator who was forced out of his job under a cloud of suspicion over his personal conduct and dissatisfaction with his job performance, has returned as the prime candidate for the sensitive post as director of the Lake County Stormwater Management Committee.

Everywhere Geick goes, he seems to be trailed by accountants and lawyers. When things got hot in Lake Zurich, he arranged an expensive buy out of his contract with the village, a sweetheart deal fashioned with the previous administration that hired him, and negotiated an out-of-court settlement on a sexual harassment charge brought by a woman who worked for him. Now that his problems with Lake Zurich have been brought to the attention of the screening committee that wants to install him in the director's post, Geick's supporters are going to cough up $5,000 of taxpayers' money for an accounting firm to delve further into his background.

If they so chose, the screening committee could have made several phone calls to Lake Zurich to obtain for nothing the information they say they need. Again, the accountants and lawyers are lining up for Geick.

While the accountants are pursuing additional background information on Geick, we think that it is even more important to raise the question why Chairman Dick Welton, mayor of Gurnee, and other members of the committee are so insistent---even defiant---about installing Geick as the first director of an agency that already is being tabbed with virtual czar powers over how and when future growth and development will take place in Lake County. Why is the committee adamant about giving a potentially controversial position to a candidate already burdened down with controversy? Welton's immediate response that applicant Geick became ensnared in a local political situation in Lake Zurich is too pat. The fact is that Geick became remarkably well connected with both builders and politicians (not to mention lawyers and accountants) during his short stay in Lake Zurich.

Besides connections that raise questions about his ability to serve, Geick has baggage the Stormwater Management Committee doesn't need in getting established. The aroma that is beginning to waft over committee members easily could be erased by turning to someone else for director. At $59,000 per year, the job shouldn't be too hard to fill.

Letters to the Editor

An 'extraordinary' act

Editor:

During the March primary elections, even candidates who supported the existing Forest Preserve Board's actions of the last few years, stated that they supported and employed the power of condemnation only in extraordinary circumstances and situations. If you would check your past columns on the issue of Forest Preserve actions, etc., you will undoubtedly find statements claiming that criticisms are unwarranted because the power of condemnation has been used only in extraordinary circumstances.

At all levels of government in our country and state, there are different items considered of such an extraordinary nature that they require an "extraordinary" vote by the elected officials to be approved. For example, if any village in Lake County wanted to annex a parcel of land---no matter how small, no matter for what use (yes, even if it were to be 100% "open space")---the annexation must obtain an "extraordinary" vote to be approved. A simple majority vote is not sufficient!

If that village, or the county decided it should vacate a piece of land, a street, alley, etc., it must do so by an "extraordinary" vote. If a village wants to purchase a product, or a service, and the low bidder has a reputation of untrustworthiness, inferior work, etc., to waive the bidding process the governmental unit must do so with an "extraordinary" vote.

There are other examples, but I'm confident the point is clear. The reasoning basis for an "extraordinary," vote requirement is that the act is so special, unique, yes, "extraordinary," that a special vote requirement should be required because if the situation is so "special" certainly a special majority will recognize it as such and be willing to support it. If not recognizable or supportable by a special majority, then such a special act should not occur.

How anybody can claim that "forcibly" requiring a person to give up all or even just a part of his or her private property (whether it be farm, swamp, lake, forest, desert, or whatever) is not an "extraordinary" act is beyond me. The justness of the amount paid for that forcibly taken is a totally separate question. Just because someone is paid a fair market value for whatever he or she is forced to give up, does not make the act of forcibly taking "ordinary!"

That a particular purchase is desirable, that it would be useful for many people, that it is in a great location, etc. ad infinitum---these are not the issues! I truly believe that most Americans including those who care most about preserving portions of our magnificent natural areas if not all, know full well that the act of condemnation is extraordinary, and by virtue thereof, deserves to have attached to it for approval, an "extraordinary" vote. For these reasons and more, I support S.B. 1630.

About making many purchases in gasoline stations to create long lines, the people who work in these places for minimum wage and those who need to drive to work, would be the ones to suffer, not big oil companies. ### Fighting Illini get No. 1 spot for fall honors

by BILL SCHROEDER

Calculating the first ever Schroeder Big 10 Football Power Ratings was a ball because the Fighting Illini came out on top in all but one category. Pasadena here we come!

And everyone knows what category we're talking about. Quarterback. Of course. The Orange and Blue's "Let George do it" offense is history now that strong-armed Jeff George is pitching for Indianapolis. But don't fret, U of I faithful. Even Granny Frickert could direct Illinois to history this year. John Mackovic's team is that loaded. Even the loss of a multi-million arm won't detour the University of Illinois eleven on its way to a Big 10 title and a Jan. 1 date in the Rose Bowl.

The Illini boast of just about the best defense in the nation led by incomparable Moe Gardner, who is the best down lineman in America. Illinois has a seasoned superior offensive line ready to set the charge for one of the most explosive backfields in the land. Senior Howard Griffith, an all-purpose back without peer, will key a versatile attack guaranteed to drive the defense bonkers. Look for pass and Illinois will run you ragged. Play for the run and you'll be burned from the air. You can go to the bank on this strategy.

About that critical quarterback slot. Jason Verdusko, a Doug Flutie type signal caller, will more than adequately fill Jeff George's shoes, even if he won't be anointed a millionaire upon graduation because he's only 5-9 and will throw only from play-action formations. Imagine Verdusko unloading to Griffith or Shawn Wax, a wide out with world class speed, on a roll out. The damage these combinations will cause will register on the Rickter Scale. How can there be so much certainty about Verdusko? In the the only chance he had to run the show last year, he filled in for a shaken George for a quarter against Ohio State (keep this in mind for later) by moving his team into the end zone against an excellent Buckeye squad.

Now for the rankings:

1. Illinois---Abounding in experience and talent with the incentive to show the world that even with Jeff George gone, the California Express won't miss a beat. Led by a cool coach who knows where all the winning buttons are.

2. Ohio State---A great team with a great back, Scottie Graham, who is good enough to rank with all the all-time OSU runners. But Graham won't be able to do it all himself Oct. 6 when the Illini invade Columbus.

3. Michigan---Talent aplenty, but a new coach who is untested---period---not to mention the big games. A murderous schedule to open the season.

4. Michigan State---The usual hard-nosed Spartan defense with eight starters on offense plus Coach George Perles who always has his squad ready for a superior effort.

5. Purdue---Look for a quality Big 10 offense led by last year's frosh quarterback phenom, Eric Hunter, a Cunningham clone. The league's second best defense. (OK, we're partial to the Boilermaker defenders because of Jeff Zgonina, who first caught our eye as a two-way player for the Carmel freshman team).

6. Iowa---The Hawkeye defense is genuine, but Hayden Fry still is looking for arms and legs for his offense.

7. Indiana---Look for junior college transfer Vaughn Dunbar to make Hoosier fans terminate their mourning over the loss of indestructible Anthony Thompson. But now there'll be other things to groan about.

8. Wisconsin---A rebuilding year. New coach Barry Alvarez brings in Notre Dame spirit and Notre Dame recruiting techniques, but he doesn't figure to do much more than beat out the also rans this year.

9. Minnesota---Unfortunately, Darrell Thompson is carrying the ball for Green Bay this fall. There goes Darrell and there goes the Gopher offense.

10. Northwestern---I'm not picking on the Wildcats. Honest. Student athletes just aren't able to keep up with husky young men who aren't detracted by homework. Wide receiver Richard Buchanan is my nominee for the most exciting offensive player in the Big 10 this year.

Cut this column out for Thanksgiving reference so you can tell me how little I know about football. Whatever, since there won't be a World Series in Chicago or Milwaukee in October, I can't wait for football season to start.

Eliminating a community

Editor:

How presumptuous of Lakemoor to assume they have any right to wipe out Volo. These people with their own community created in the images of each citizen; content with their place in the sun.

They have not been bamboozled by the fake, the fancy and the quick-fix that took in the suckers in Lakemoor. They know the tried and true long haul of gradual and sensitive development of a town lasts longer and makes happier citizens. They reject that slick operating, clever talking outsider filling them with slanted, specious bills of false goods.

Just look at Vernon Hills. Sears-Holmart has been there less than 10 years, and it's been going downhill ever since. Their legacy? They want to distance themselves from the truth, but the facts are: Ever-widening roads; strip-joints crowding strip-joints along Rte. 60; traffic signals every quarter mile; congestion all day long; land values sky high; nothing but blazing, stinking, nerve shaking trips into Vernon Hills anymore. A once pleasant community not fit to live in or drive through in such a short time! It started with Sears-Holmart! Don't believe a Schaumburg can happen here? Wrong! When you have big bucks zeroing in on small town counsels looking for a quick-fix to their financial problems; and not enough backbone and integrity to withstand their temptations; the welfare of its citizens and the health of the community will be traded off, as was done in Lakemoor.

It's obvious Mayor Godt has less love for Volo than use for it. A means to an end. He is insensitive to the humanness that makes a town a joy and a treasure; and that has made Volo unique.

TREE HUGGER—It appears F.T. "Mike" Graham, the Forest Preserve District's No. 1 open spacer, will always be a tree hugger.

Upon receiving a mailing last month from The Nature Conservancy for donations to save the Maya rain forest in South America, Graham sent off a check for $150.

Along with it was a letter that said, in part:

"In Lake County, Ill., what tree life we don't destroy through construction and fence-row to fence-row farming, we cause to die through carelessness and sheer greed. Just a few days ago three 200-year-old healthy burr oaks and two pre-Civil War Austrian pines were chain sawed all in the name of progress to accommodate Gurnee Mills, a giant shopping center.

"A bit more irony. When Gurnee Mills opens another shopping center within five miles, Lakehurst, will eventually close for lack of business. Twenty-five years ago, 1,000 mature oaks and shagbark hickory trees were bulldozed and burned when Lakehurst was built, resulting in the decay of downtown Waukegan's business district."

Graham's envelope for mailing such things, incidentally, has a pastoral scene of several trees with falling leaves and a rugged wood fence with a quote from Will Rogers: "We ain't making no more land."

MAN IN MIDDLE—Edward Geick is without a job. After being fired last winter as Lake Zurich village administrator, he was going to write a book. Instead, he landed a job as administrator in the nearby community of Elkhorn, Wis. He quit that job after one month to become the first head of the new Lake County Stormwater Management Agency. He was recommended for the post by a screening committee.

When the full committee met last week it voted to investigate why Geick was ushered out of Lake Zurich and left Theinsville, Wis., (a Milwaukee suburb) before that. Chairman Richard Welton of Gurnee has been besieged with comments, both pro and con.

"I didn't know this appointment would create such a controversy," Welton said.

DEMOCRATIC BIG WIGS

Democrats are rolling out the heavy artillery for the annual Lake County Democratic Party Golf Day and dinner. It will be Friday, Aug. 24. Golf will be at Foss Park in North Chicago and dinner at the Ramada Inn in Waukegan.

State Democratic Party Chairman Gary J. LaPaille is coming all the way from Springfield to be the dinner keynote speaker. He is the chief of staff to Mike Madigan, speaker of the Illinois House.

Special guest will be Patrick Quinn, Democratic candidate for state treasurer. In real life he is a Chicago attorney, but has a illustrious history with the Cook County Board of Tax Appeals and director of the Chicago Dept. of Revenue.

FIGHTING MAYOR

Mayor Joyce Frayer doesn't mince words when it comes to the Lake County Board. She'd like to give most of the 24 members a piece of her mind.

That's because the mayor wants to connect her village to the county regional sewerage treatment plant in Fox Lake. But the County Board keeps rewriting the fine print on the many agreements it sends her.

Among other stipulations, the county wants to keep the village from expanding beyond the limits of a county zoning/framework for the area.

Last week the county put it in writing: 300 percent growth of the village's official 2,800 population.

Frayer says no. "I don't know of any other village that has any such limits," the mayor said.

"Give me a break," says Dist. 4 County Board member Suzi Schmidt of Lake Villa. "Three hundred percent will mean wall-to-wall people in Lake Villa."

*****

TAXING SUBJECT—Another Democrat making news is Sander Stagman of Highland Park. He is a candidate for county treasurer on the November ballot.

A tax accountant for 24 years, promises to reduce property taxes if elected. How can he do what no one else has been able to do?

It is explained in a cassette tape of a radio interview sent to the news media.

"As an accountant I will install unique accounting techniques to turn the tax spiral around," Stagman promises. "The incumbent's view that the treasurer merely takes money in and pays it out has been a major catalyst for the 'run away train' the tax burden has become in Lake County."

"This count needs a 'watch dog,' not another term of foxes watching the hen house," Stagman says. "Lake County taxpayers can no longer afford to let the same hungry good old boys feed at the county's tax revenue trough."

Joyce Frayer

Stagman counts among his supporters friends of Steven Baer. Remember him? He's the pro-choice candidate for governor in the primary who got lots of publicity, but not votes.

COMING EVENTS: Friday, Aug. 24—Annual Lake County Democratic Party Golf Day. Golf on North Chicago's Foss Park Dist.'s course and dinner at Ramada Inn, Waukegan, with state party Chairman Gay J. LaPaille as keynote speaker. For $35 dinner tickets or $60 golf and dinner tickets call party Chairman Betty Ann Moore at (708) 816-8303. Tuesday, Aug. 28—Fundraiser for Deloris Axelrod, candidate for state representative in 58th Dist., Private Eye Lounge of Hyatt-Deerfield, 1750 Lake Cook Rd., Deerfield, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. For $35 ticket that includes complimentary hors d'oeuvres and cash bar, call (708) 623-1995. Sunday, Aug. 26—Annual Lake County Republican Party family picnic on Serbian Monastery grounds, Third Lake. For $5 tickets see any Republican precinct committeeman or get them at the gate. Tuesday, Aug. 28—All-you-can-eat spaghetti dinner to re-elect County Clerk Linda Hess at Potesta's Pizza-Pasta, 101 Town Line Rd. (Rte. 60), Vernon Hills, 6 to 8 p.m. For $10 ticket that includes spaghetti, soft drinks and cash bar, call Kathy Ryg, Vernon Hills village clerk at (708) 367-4728.

Folly of our economy

In Lake County what tree life we don't destroy through construction and fence-row to fence-row farming, we cause to die through carelessness and sheer greed. Just a few days ago three 200-year-old healthy burr oaks and two pre-Civil War Austrian pines were chain-sawed all in the name of progress to accommodate Gurnee Mills, a giant shopping center. This is just a mini-reflection of what is happening ten's of thousands of times daily across the nation.

A bit more irony; when Gurnee Mills opens another shopping center within five miles, Lakehurst, will eventually close for lack of business. Twenty-five years ago, 1,000 mature oaks and shagbark hickory trees were bulldozed and burned when Lakehurst was built; resulting in the decay of downtown Waukegan's business district. Our entire economy is based on planned obsolescence and almost criminal wastefulness of our natural resources.

Animal 'rights' a silly myth

I would like to give a different perspective on the animal rights matter.

Sharon Wild expressed regret at the inhuman treatment she observed at the recent Wauconda Rodeo where a bucking bronco fell and broke his neck. She asks if putting the well being and life of animals at great risk for the mere entertainment and profit of others is ethical or moral? I believe, in many cases it is.

Animals are not human an inhuman treatment of animals is a misnomer. The recent fad of considering animal rights equal to that of humans is silly. To treat an animal as if he were a human would be cruel (e.g. confine a horse to an apartment of a subway car). Treatment that is in good taste ("class" if you like) is the important watchword in ethical conduct.

The great loser at the Wauconda rodeo were the pigs and cattle who died to feed the humans. The only chance they had was the opportunity to live for a year or two and have a quick death; something they would probably not have had if they were free roaming in the forest.

The horse who tripped and died was an accident and thus an exception to the general rule that rodeo horses live a relatively long an nonhuman life. Each year about 200 human riders die in the U.S. from falls while riding horses. In both cases, it is bad luck and misfortune, not someone's inhumanity. The athletic event of the bucking bronco pits a horse who does not like humans on his back against a rider who wants to remain there. The strap around the groin is insignificant (for the horse) for it is the presence of the rider that makes him buck. The horse has a chance to throw and trample the rider. The horse wins every time (I have never seen a rider stick wit the horse for more than a minute). It's obvious that a big, well motivated horse can eventually make a man do what the horse wants but for a few seconds, it is a toss-up and thus the sport. The horse is treated no worse than the human rider, that is class.

One of the greatest and "class" athletic events (and an excellent example of the inhumanity myth) I have seen is bull fighting. A large beef animal (who may later be dinner to humans so that they can live) is given the opportunity to live a long life (something not seen in the wild) by killing a matador. I've seen many bulls die at the matador's sword—the people cheer. I've also seen some matadors die on the horns of the bull, the people cheer the bull who often goes to the stud farm. My point is that animals are a resource to be used by humans. Without humans, most animals would never be born or die painful deaths at an early age. Taste dictates how we treat animals.

I see nothing wrong with killing animals for food or clothing and nothing wrong with using animals (with class) in sporting events for it reminds us that we are animals too and that it is our minds, not our bulk, that make us what we are. This is an important message for our survival as a species. We must be constantly reminded of this (thus the value of rodeos) lest we forget.

Happy in Chief Miller

I'm pleased to see the Police Chief Charles Miller of Antioch came out of his investigation with a clean bill of health. What pleases me more is the support he is receiving from the members of the village board and the public which he served so diligently for years.

It's tough to buck city hall by yourself. My hat's off to the people of Antioch and the Chief Miller.

Equivalent of Jesse Jackson

A few days ago I received a bill from Illinois Bell for installation of a new phone line, an assortment of specialty services, and two months worth of service. The invoice total was more than several times the magnitude of my usual phone bill. I did not call my family together and take a poll as to whether I should pay the bill. The invoice represented a duly constituted obligation with the phone company, and certainly would not simply "go away" had I not decided to pay it.

In the same vein, the $3,085,000 obligation to pay back monies that were borrowed to pay our teachers who serve our children in Dist. 116 is a duly constituted obligation. There has been no evidence that past and present school boards acted with anything less than financial responsibility in contracting with our teachers and paying them. The taxpayers (myself included) exercise their right to oversee the management of our school district whenever school board members are elected. If this bond issue goes to referendum and fails, the obligation will remain and must be paid.

I as a parent find it offensive that Bob Boness appears to "wrap himself in the flag" by seeming to be local populist advocate for the taxpayer. The bond issue is the most cost effective way to deal with the current costs of operating our schools. If the bond issue is disallowed not only will the taxpayers in the district will be disadvantaged educationally. If, as Mr. Boness says, he is not sure whether he is for or against the bond issue, what is the point of his referendum? I think he wants to see his name in print. I think he is in the running for being the Round Lake area's equivalent of Jesse Jackson.

State, regional champs

LL team back home from tourney battle

Mundelein's 13-year old Little League All-Stars came home last week after placing third in the Junior League World Series.

Salute to all-stars

Sign in front of Mundelein village hall salutes 13-year-old Little League All-Stars, who won state and regional title before taking third place in Junior Little League World Series last week.

The team lost two games in the tournament at Taylor, Mich., starting Aug. 13 with a win over Germany. After losing its next game on Aug. 15 to a team from Newark, N. J., the team dropped a second game on Aug. 17. The tourney included four teams from the United States and four international teams.

The team began its trek toward the world series by winning the state title in late July. This is only the second team in Mundelein Little League history to win state honors. A team of 14-year-olds did it in 1967.

Mundelein went on to win the Central Region title in games at Ft. Wayne, Ind. There it beat teams from Ohio and Iowa before downing Indiana 6-4 for the championship.

The team was on the road for three weeks from the time it won the state title until returning home last weekend.

This is the first Mundelein Little League team to reach such a level of play.

A suitable honor is now being considered by the village similar to the parade for the 1967 team.

Church site joins village

Fox Lake is continuing its southward march with council approval of three ordinances that will pave the way for construction by Fox Lake Community Church of a new sanctuary on a parcel south of Rte. 134 and west of Rte. 12.

The future church site is across the highway from a future shopping center and adjacent to more than 30 acres being considered for annexation and more commercial development.

Board action included annexation, approval of a pre-annexation agreement and an amendment of the zoning code.

In other business, trustees voted to advertise for a part-time employee for the treasurer's office, accept a bid for the purchase of an extrication device for the Fox Lake Rescue Squad and create a new village department for the Fox Lake Community Center.

The village will split of cost of the $16,495 safety tool with the fire department. Trustees also voted to advertise for a secretary to share time between the building and police departments.

Meier eyes volunteers to build tourist center

Mayor Frank Meier is convinced Fox Lake can build a tourist welcome center on S. Rte. 12 on village-owned property turned over to the Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

"The tourist center can be built with donations and manned by volunteers," the mayor declared at a meeting on economic development held at the Fox Lake Community Center.

"We need a tourist center. We had one years ago. I think we can build one today," he remarked, referring to the Community Center building project that received statewide acclaim and won a Governor's Hometown Award.

The mayor pointed out that senior citizens would be happy to man the center at no pay or nominal pay.

Ellen Mansfield, president of the Chamber, said directors favor a plan to erect an unmanned kiosk-style structure on the premises that would contain brochures and directions for where to obtain information. The site would be landscaped and blacktopped. There would be an attractive sign welcoming visitors.

The way Meier sounded, he'd like to get started as soon as possible.

Long-time residents remember when Lou Kitterman and later Marge Tuck manned a welcome center located in a small frame structure on Grand Ave. next to the Milwaukee Road tracks.

Sign rules need change

Some modifications in the Fox Lake sign ordinance might be necessary to provide identification for "off street" businesses, in the opinion of Building Com. Fred Dierker, who also serves as village code enforcement officer.

If changes will benefit business, Mayor Frank Meier says he's all for them.

Dierker acknowledged that businesses located off Rte. 12 and Grand Ave. frequently encounter identification problems.

Examples are businesses on Washington St. in the Ingleside section and businesses on Oak St.

Mayor Meier said he prefers attractive signs identifying the area with name boards listing the business that can be replaced. "I think that would suit our local businesses," he said.

The village is going to encourage officers of the Fox Lake Area Chamber of Commerce and Industry to follow through with a stipulation of sign needs that can be brought before the council. Earlier this year the council adopted sign ordinance revisions in the making for more than two years.

The "off street" provision wasn't addressed, according to Chamber leaders.

Round Lake plans squad car purchase

Round Lake is discussing the purchase of a new squad car. Although no prices have been mentioned yet, the state of Illinois was called and is holding a unit for the village.

Purchasing a unit through the state is less expensive than buying through a dealer, although the village will additionally need to purchase a light bar for the new squad. At the moment, purchase of the squad depends on determining a price and authorizing payment.

Round Lake is also discussing the need to fix several leaks in the roof of the police station. The village is seeking an estimate on the work before letting it out for bids.

The Round Lake Public Works Dept. is planning to purchase two new snowplows. The first, for a large truck, is not to exceed $4,600, and the second, for the smaller pick-up truck, is not to exceed $1,800.

A committee of the village board has recommended payment to MHI construction, of Island Lake, for the work completed last week on the Aylon Ct. Storm Sewer. The payment, $48,181, should be voted on at the next regular board meeting.

Scholl speaks on ChildServ

Mason Scholl, associate executive director of ChildServ, spoke at Ingleside United Methodist Church last month about the group's services.

ChildServ, perhaps known better by its former name of Lake Bluff/Chicago Home for Children, is an organization dedicated to prevention of future problems for children and families as well as solving current needs for children and families regardless of their church affiliation.

"Many children and families we work with are poor and undereducated, but blossom and grow once they have the knowledge and tools to cope with their problems," said Scholl.

Part of the Methodist Church since it was organized 94 years ago, ChildServ's original purpose was to help the homeless children from Chicago. ChildServ currently provides direct services to approximately 3,000 children and families from its 13 locations in Lake, Cook, and DuPage counties, as well as Chicago.

ChildServ includes psychological and religious counseling for families and such services as "Mom's Place" and "Mom's Night Out." The "ASK-Line" offers a friendly phone for latchkey kids. Other services offered by ChildServ include "Kid's Place," an afternoon stop-in center; "Family Life Education," a teen pregnancy prevention program; and "HIPPI," or Home Instruction for Preschool Youngsters, an at-home pre-school training program.

The main office, where Scholl is based, is located in Park Ridge. The Lakes Region office, headed by Linda Gleeson, has applied to relocate from Round Lake to Ingleside.

Leber memo clarifies law

Fox Lake Trustee Rich Bayne declared that County Board Dist. 4 Rep. Suzi Schmidt of Lake Villa misinformed the Fox Lake council how the inoperative Round Lake Sanitary Dist. can be dissolved.

Bayne's motives came under question after he spoke out against a request from Schmidt for Fox Lake to support legislation awaiting the governor's signature on dissolving the district which now receives sewage treatment service from the regional plant located in Fox Lake.

"I'm not saying she was lying. She must have been misinformed," declared Bayne, who indicated that he still is smarting from the reaction to his remarks at a previous council meeting.

Quoting from a memo on the legislation prepared by Water and Sewer Supt. Rick Leber, Bayne said the legislation does not provide for the district to be dissolved by referendum of Round Lake area voters as Schmidt described.

Rather, dissolution is up to district trustees who already are on record as opposing the legislation. The memo further pointed out that existing funds would go to a successor agency, in this case the county, under terms of an inter-governmental agreement.

The Leber memo also pointed out that the new legislation provides for taxing power for the successor agency, up to .25 percent of the assessed valuation.

"That's what I was so adamant about," Bayne declared. "That's why I'm asking that Fox Lake has nothing to do with the bill."

Leber prepared the memo subsequent to Bayne's heated comments at the village board meeting.

Park commissioners parade

Lindenhurst Park District Commissioners showed their support for Lindenhurst by being in the Lindenfest Parade over the weekend. The park commissioners donated all of their free time to help with the Lindenfest preparations and even set up a booth of their own.

Interns experience a Lakeland summer

Five bright young college students came to Lakeland Newspapers this summer as interns.

The five were Bob Schroeder, Lori Eslinger, Sonja Youngwith, Stephanie Engle and Becky Johns.

Schroeder, son of Lakeland Newspapers Publisher Bill Schroeder, is a student at Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind. He worked on public relations and promotions within the circulation department.

Lori Eslinger, a student at Illinois State University, worked in telemarketing, classified advertising and subscription services.

Sonja Youngwith, from Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa, handled classified advertising as well as other ads.

In the editorial department were Stephanie Engle and Becky Johns.

Engle, from the University of Miami in Oxford, Ohio, performed a variety of writing assignments during her stay with Lakeland, including hard news as well as feature writing.

Johns, a student of the University of Missouri in Columbia, Mo., coordinated news coverage in the Lindenhurst area as well as contributing to other areas of the Lakeland readership area.

Their favorite memory is the in-depth series on music labeling they worked on together.

Publisher Bill Schroeder commented, "It was fun working with them. We enjoyed their energy and vitality. They brought a lot to the job."

All the interns said they enjoyed the pace of newspaper work and the challenge of the stimulating environment.

Car wash owner hits alderman for harassment

The owner of a North Chicago car wash is accusing an alderman of harassing himself and his business.

Vic Arrigo, owner of Nicole's Hand Car Wash, 820 14th St., has filed the letter with the City of North Chicago against Ald. Joe Vuckovich. The letter is being used as a "last resort," it states.

The letter accuses Vuckovich of watching those who enter and leave the business with binoculars and taking pictures.

"Vuckovich has on a continuous basis spread rumors that I am a known mobster, taken pictures and license plate numbers of people that have come to my establishment and as late as Aug. 6 being observed by my lawyer and myself sitting in his truck with binoculars and a camera and when approached went into his home," the letter states.

"I feel as a business owner within North Chicago, and a citizen no such harassment should be imposed upon me. My own alderwoman nor city council assembly has found blame of any type upon my business or person to warrant any continuation of such treatment," the letter states.

Arrigo called for the matter to be "immediately addressed."

Vuckovich said he had no response to the letter.

Sports Authority shows plans for new complex

Next year, Vernon Hills residents may be able to enjoy a brand new softball facility.

Vernon Hills Village Board members heard a proposal for softball and soccer fields in a Continental Executive Parke parcel from the Vernon Hills Sports Authority at a Tuesday night meeting.

Sports Authority representatives Mike Rojewski and Scott Peckler explained the concept at a committee-of-the-whole meeting. The site would be on eight acres of the Continental Executive Parke and adjacent to Stone Fence Farms subdivision.

Facilities will be available all 12 months of the year. Plans call for four sand lot volleyball courts with lights, softball fields with lights and soccer fields with lights. For winter sports buffs, there would be two broomball and hockey rinks.

Rojewski said the lighting would be away from the homes. Hours would be 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for residents' use, with league play starting at 5:30 p.m.

Trustee Pam Newton said she visited a similar facility, Softball City in Hainesville, and was impressed. "I was pleasantly surprised," Newton said.

Vernon Hills Park Board Commissioner Kelly Garvanian said the Sports Authority had approached herself and Dir. Carl Hartmann but had not presented plans to the full board.

"We do not want a fight with the park district. The village is growing in the next three to four years and there will be plenty to go around," Rojewski, a Libertyville High School graduate, said.

The facility would appeal to both residents and the possibility of corporate teams from Continental Executive Park.

The softball fields would have grass outfields and dirt infields and the entire complex would be fenced. "I am concerned about fencing all around the property," Trustee Roger Byrne said.

Vernon Hills Village Mgr. Larry Laschen said there may be a temporary road installed.

"It is an interesting concept," Trustee Alvin Israel said.

The Sports Authority would lease the property from the village.

Further talks are expected.

In other matters at the committee-of-the-whole meeting, trustees agreed to the annexation of the five acres of property known as the Biebrach property. It is located north of Rte. 45, west of Rte. 21 and east of Corporate Woods. It is currently zoned commercial business in unincorporated Lake County.

Trustees approved an extension of the police agreement with Mettawa to April 30, 1991.

A mall with a difference

by STEPHANIE ENGLE
Lakeland Newspapers

Sandy Wagner calls her Antique Alley Mall the ultimate in recycling because "we have recycled the bowling alley into a mall and we sell recycled items."

Antique Alley Mall, located at 415 S. Washington St. in Fox Lake, is a unique mall in the Chain O' Lakes area. It is an open mall which features around 30 antique dealers.

"This is not a flea market. It is a mall of quality antique dealers," Wagner emphasizes.

Wagner explains there is nothing like her mall in the area.

"I got the idea when I was traveling in Peoria, Ill. So, since antiques are big up here, I thought I would give it a try," she explained.

Therefore, she purchased the old bowling alley on Washington St. and renovated the entire mall herself: "With help from my family, of course. My kids, my grandchildren, my in-laws - everyone helped out. If it wasn't for their help, there would not be a mall."

She explained she removed the bowling equipment but left the wood floor.

County credit unions in state's top 100

Three Lake County credit unions are among the state's 100 largest in assets, according to figures provided to the Illinois Credit Union League for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Designated Smoking Areas Required In Factories?

A Question From The Illinois Chamber HELPLINE

THE ILLINOIS CHAMBER

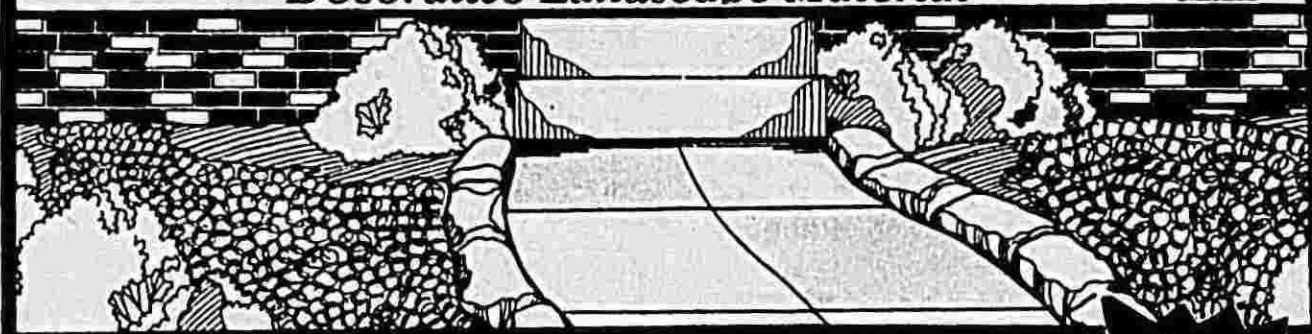

Q. Do I need to have designated smoking areas in my factory because of the new Illinois smoking law?

A. No. The new Illinois Clean Indoor Air Act excludes factories and warehouses since they are not usually frequented by the general public. Also about a dozen communities, including Chicago, are not covered by any part of the new state law since they had their own smoking laws already in place.

Using next generation's talent requires creative flexibility

by KENNETH KAYE

Is there any reason to think the jobs in a closely held business will be ready-made for family members who want them, or that the next generation will be ready-made for the roles you have to fill? Here is an example.

Doris prepared well for her job with her father's large horticultural business. After majoring in horticulture at the University of Illinois, she has spent 15 years working in every phase of their growing, harvesting and sales operations.

At the same time, her sister and brother has acquired good business training elsewhere. Barbara has an M.B.A. and five years' experience as a strategic planning consultant. Paul, financial officer of a medium-sized business moved back to the midwest to join the family business. Paul also expressed an interest in helping Doris and their father.

So the siblings looked at their different areas of knowledge and experience and carved the family business management into three equal-status jobs. As dad gradually withdraws from operations, Doris will handle productions and sales, Paul will handle the finances, and Barbara will be in charge of planning.

Assume these siblings are capable, normally reasonable adults willing to respect one another's different personalities and lifestyles. There are plenty of profits to go around.

the industry, the employees, the customers, the suppliers. I had to advise dad, "Your business as now constituted has room for only one successor."

This Way to Wealth

What is wrong with their plan?

What's wrong is that their horticultural business doesn't need two M.B.A.'s; it doesn't even need one. And strategic planning really should be Doris' responsibility, as the only one of the three who knows

Some family-owned businesses have the opposite problem: too few family members for the existing management roles. Many have good potential candidates for succession in the future, but not right at the time when vital roles need to be taken over. Or the next generation, already overqualified for top positions that won't be open any time soon, have to run in place for years, or look for opportunities elsewhere.

Three time lines have to converge. One time line is the next generation's maturation, education and experience (which can differ by as much as 10 or 20 years among brothers and sisters). Second is the course of the business's growth and development, its changing needs for management. Third is the owner's age, health and retirement goals (or lack thereof).

There is absolutely no reason to suppose that a family's talent pool will be ready to assume leadership precisely when the business' growth and the parent's mortality require new leadership.

What do successful entrepreneurs do in such situations? Some reorganize their companies to fit the next generation's abilities and desires. That won't work for Doris and her siblings, but many businesses do offer such opportunities.

Hiring good professional managers is one of the best solutions to the imperfect fit between a family's next generation and a business's current needs. Every industry has available experienced people in their 50s and 60s.

When roles must be filled by highly qualified individuals but the next generation isn't ready to step into them, or it isn't clear what, if anything, they will choose to do in the family business, experienced managers with a commitment to stay on until retirement are relatively unthreatened by a boss' son or daughter. The challenge of serving as mentor can be a particularly rewarding part of their job description.

So many creative solutions are possible that is an owner has capable, motivated adult children with a desire to carry on the family's business tradition, a way can be found to allow the next generation to shape the direction of that business.

Editor's note: Kenneth Kaye, Ph.D., of Chicago, is a consulting psychologist to family-owned businesses.

Life after retirement: managing a fixed income

Unless you've accumulated a bankroll that could rival Donald Trump's, retirement will almost certainly mean adjusting to a fixed income and altering one's lifestyle in ways never anticipated.

To understand the ways in which retirement can radically change your financial priorities, the Illinois CPA Society suggests that you look closely at what retiring on fixed income means. You may no longer have to pay commuter costs or maintain a business wardrobe, but your credit card debts, mortgage or rent payments, and utility bills are likely to continue unchanged. At the same time, your entertainment, travel and medical bills may very well increase.

In the past, you may have counted on promotions, salary raises or bonuses to help you beat the race with inflation or credit card balances. But once you retire, your income may grow only by occasional Social Security cost-of-living increases.

Moreover, the amount of risk you can afford to take in personal investments, such as mutual funds, generally decreases, along with the opportunity for dramatic appreciation of capital.

For the most part, living on a fixed income means accepting the limits and possibilities of the funds you have accumulated or earned during your working years. Judging by statistics of recently years, Social Security will probably remain a major source of retirement income, at least, for individuals leaving the work force in the near future. The remaining funds usually come from an employer pension plan and such savings options as IRAs, Keogh or 401K plans.

Ultimately, retiring with financial security means handling your fixed income with intelligence and care. Start by examining your income and expenses and formulating a realistic budget. Add up what your (and your spouse, if applicable) receive from such sources as Social Security, employer pensions, IRA or Keogh benefits, dividends and annuities. Next, total your fixed and variable expenses, such as mortgage payments or rent, utilities, medical expenses, credit card bills and recreation. Try to gauge which expenses may be affected by inflation and make adjustments to your budget accordingly. If you have duplicate credit cards, eliminate at least one.

When you have an accurate picture of your financial capabilities, consider how your lifestyle works with or against your budget. Some retirees "live life to the fullest" and spend lavishly on travel and entertainment, without realizing that they may outlive their capital. Other retirees are exceedingly cautious, scrimping and saving whenever possible. These people face another, equally serious risk, they may never have the chance to enjoy their hard-earned savings.

Try to avoid either extreme. Remember that while budgets should not be created and revised on a whim, neither should they force you to deny yourself unnecessarily. For additional help in establishing a budget, consult a financial planner. In many cases, he or she will be able to analyze your economic situation and estimate how much money you can withdraw from your various investments each month without depleting your funds prematurely.

If, after careful consideration, you decide that your income remains insufficient for your needs, don't despair. You still have options available. Take a part-time job. You can generally earn several thousands dollars a year without affecting your Social Security payments. If you have a vacation home, consider renting it to others for at least a portion of the year. Alternatively, you can convert a garage into a rental apartment.

If you are living in a home or apartment originally designed for a growing family, investigate housing alternatives, say, a one-bedroom apartment or a condominium in a retirement community.

Although moving may seem an unwelcome prospect, weigh all the pros and cons before dismissing the idea. After all, moving to another city or state where the cost of living is less expensive can dramatically improve the quality of your retirement life.

When contemplating the possibility of relocation, review all the financial implications of such factors as state income tax rates, utility costs, property tax and even climate. In addition, find out if the community offers retired individuals discounts on transportation, heating oil, property taxes or entertainment.

Another way to stretch your fixed income is by being aware of, and planning to minimize, your tax liability. Retiring usually results in a substantially lower income and, thus, lower tax rates. But don't forget that pension income and IRA withdrawals are taxable. Take out too much money in one year, and you may end up paying more taxes than you anticipated. For taxpayers who itemize, knowledge of the tax laws can mean more spending power.

Find out about the deductions allowed as well as any restrictions that may affect your particular tax liability. For example, medical expenses are still deductible, but only to the extent that they exceed 7 1/2 percent of your adjusted gross income. As your income decreases and your medical expenses rise, this particular tax deduction may become more valuable to you. Keep this information in mind and you may be able to time annual check-ups and certain foreseeable medical expenses so that you can take full advantage of the deduction.

If you are considering selling your home, find out if you are eligible for the once-in-a-lifetime, tax-free gains of $125,000 on the sale. A CPA will be able to further explain the various tax benefits available to older Americans.

Remember that being aware of your cash flow, tax benefits and community resources can go a long way in helping you enjoy a financially secure retirement.

Antique Alley

"Basically, I left almost everything the way it was. I just tried to clean up the place a bit," Wagner said.

In 1910, the building was constructed as a garage. Years later, it was converted into a dance hall and then a bowling alley. And now it is an antique shopping mall.

The biggest renovation Wagner made on the building was on the outside. She completely refurbished the outside of the building by painting it and adding awnings.

For her clean-up efforts, Wagner was awarded the last of the Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce's $500 checks that they awarded to Fox Lake businesses that made a concerted effort to physically look better and that positively contributed to the business community.

"This building had been vacant for two to three years and I just decided to do it. I had never really decided to start my own business but this opportunity came up and I took it," Wagner said. She has, however, always been interested in antiques.

So far, business is going very well.

"The dealers really like this location because it is cute and antique buyers like that lots of antiques dealers are located all in one location," Wagner reports.

She also added the village of Fox Lake and other area businesses have been very helpful getting the business off the ground.

"This is one of the nicest towns around and this mall is in a prime location and so far, things are going great," she said.

As for future plans, Wagner said she is looking into maybe adding a bakery or small restaurant in the mall, utilizing the bar area that she has left in tact.

For more information about the mall, contact Sandy Wagner at (708)587-0091.

Tall ship sails up lakeshore

by GLORIA DAVIS
Lakeland Newspapers

At dawn on Friday, 2,000 people waiting at the Racine Harbor were taken back to the 18th century as the H. M. S. Rose, a replica of a British frigate, came sailing into the harbor.

Liz Kranyik and Charlie Porzelt, two of the "Rose's" crew, said that the wind had been so strong as the Rose sailed from Chicago, north up the lakeshore, past Waukegan and Kenosha to Racine that they were in sight of the Wisconsin harbor five hours ahead of schedule, so they sailed around on Lake Michigan so they wouldn't arrive too early and disappoint a welcoming crowd that had already planned to rise at dawn.

The Rose, the world's largest operational wooden sailing ship, fired a 24-gun salute from its cannon, adding to the authentic aura of the ship's arrival.

Three soldiers dressed in 18th century military garb answered the salute by firing their muskets.

The ship has sailed up the Atlantic Coast and is now going through the St. Lawrence Seaway, making stops in Ohio, Michigan, Chicago and now in Wisconsin. Manitowoc and Milwaukee are the next scheduled ports of call.

The replica, built 200 years later in Nova Scotia, was purchased by Kaye Williams in 1984 and turned into a non-profit foundation.

The tours through the Rose while it was berthed in Racine Harbor were sponsored by the cancer center at St. Luke's Hospital in Racine, so the hospital received the proceeds.

The present cruise started from the ship's home dock in Bridgeport, Conn., on June 20 and is due to end on Oct. 14. The crew is made up of teachers, college students and many experienced sailors. Kranyik is a teacher and Porzelt is an experienced sailor.

The majestic masts of the Rose reach 14 stories.

Largest wooden sailing ship

The H.M.S. Rose, a replica of a 1770 British frigate, weighs 500 tons and is the world's largest wooden sailing vessel. The Rose sailed from Chicago last week, down the lakeshore, past Waukegan and Kenosha, to dock at the Racine Harbor during the Racine In-Water Boat Show. Over 2,000 people were waiting on shore to greet the ship at dawn. Charlie Porzelt, professional sailor, and Liz Kranyik, teacher, are part of Rose's crew.

The Alaska Marine Highway

by JIM WARREN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Alaska, being twice the size of Texas, has a problem. It has only one highway. And that road doesn't even reach half of the state's largest cities!

What Alaska does have, though, is more coastline than the rest of the United States combined. So, in 1960, the people of this state voted the establishment of a waterborne highway system.

Starting with just one ship operating from Skagway to Prince Rupert, B.C., the system has grown to nine ships and extends all the way to Seattle. Areas serviced include the Kenai Peninsula, Kodiak Island, Juneau, Ketchikan, Sitka, Hoonah and Wrangell.

The fleet of the Alaska Marine Highway consists of a variety of sizes of ships. They all carry both passengers and motor vehicles. Five have staterooms, while four do not. Most staterooms have showers and toilets, but one ship offers cabins with or without facilities. While all have food service and cocktail lounges. Passengers are responsible for handling their own luggage, which must be stored either in your car and trailer or in coin-operated storage lockers.

While these ships are quite comfortable, remember that this is a public transportation system—not a cruise line. Don't expect cruise ship amenities.

You can access this system at the Seattle terminal at Pier 48, near the Washington state ferry. Access to the Alaska highway is at Haines via the 159-mile Haines Highway.

During your voyage, maybe you'll be lucky enough to see a Kodiak brown bear, which can reach a weight of 1,200 pounds. You could visit Seldovia, a fishing and logging community founded by the Russians. You must visit Juneau, the capital city of Alaska, surrounded by towering mountains and glaciers, it is only reachable by air or sea.

One last tip. Unlike the cruise lines, the marine highway operates all year long. Traveling off-season from October 1 to April 30, you'll find fewer crowds, much more beautiful scenery and save money!

Monday night football fare, at its very best, is light, great-tasting, fuss-free to fix and easy to eat in front of the television set. Serve yourself "finger foods" prepared well in advance of kickoff are a winning game plan for fans who don't want to miss a minute of the action.

Next game night, keep armchair quarterbacks cheering with First Down Drumsticks, a light, full-flavored main dish that elevates everyday chicken legs to a superstar status and Fancy Fettuccine that really score with pigskin fans.

Sweet red peppers and cream are complemented by the savory herbs and spice in Italian salad dressing. All the spices required except for the basil leaves are already included in the dressing. Just add salt and pepper to taste and grated Parmesan cheese for a piquant dish that's elegant enough to serv lots of football fans.

First Down Drumsticks

- 3/4 cup picante sauce
- 1/4 cup honey
- 1 Tbl. soy sauce
- 1/2 to 1 tsp. grated fresh ginger, as desired
- 12 chicken legs, skin removed

Combine picante sauce, honey, soy sauce and ginger in small saucepan; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer 10 minutes. Place chicken in greased shallow baking pan; brush with half of picante sauce mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Turn; brush with remaining picante sauce mixture. Continue baking 20 minutes or until tender. Serve warm or chilled with additional picante sauce.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Fettuccine with roasted red pepper sauce

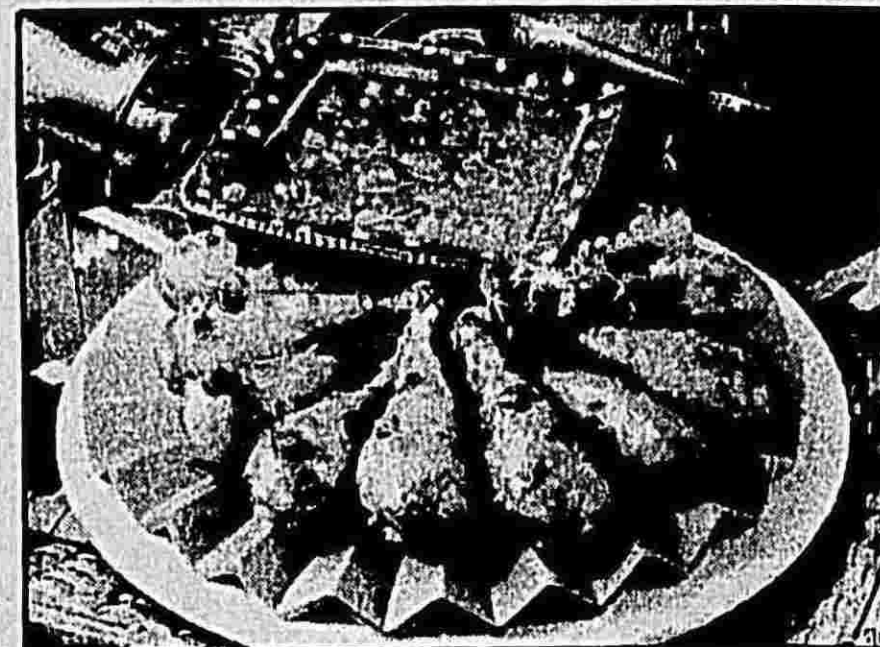

- 3 large red peppers
- 1/2 cup whipping or heavy cream

1/4 cup Italian dressing
2 Tbl. chopped fresh basil leaves ( or 2 tsp. dried basil leaves).
1 package fettuccine or medium egg noodles, cooked and drained.
grated Parmesan cheese
In large aluminum-foil-lined baking pan or on broiler rack, place peppers. Broil, turning occasionally, 20 minutes or until peppers turn almost completely black. Immediately place in paper bag; close bag and let cool about 30 minutes. Under cold running water, peel off skin, then remove stems and seeds.

In food processor or blender, process prepared peppers, cream, Italian dressing, basil, salt and pepper until blended. Toss with hot fettuccine and serve with cheese.
Makes 4 main-dish servings.

Guitarist Kottke set for Opera House

Legendary guitarist Leo Kottke will present two concerts at the Woodstock Opera House on Friday Sept. 21, and Saturday Sept. 22. Each show will begin at 8 p.m.

Kottke is known for his ability to incorporate musical styles. His music combines so many different ones, American, folk music, bluegrass, classical, sousa marches, jazz, pop, and more that it is nearly impossible for critics to neatly classify him. So as listeners all over the world can attest, the need for classification pales in the face of Kottke's rich, multi-layered solo guitar music.

Kottke demonstrates a growing harmonic and rhythmic sophistication.

Tickets for these concerts are priced at $14 each and are on sale at the Woodstock Opera House box office. For tickets or more information, call (815)338-5300.

Stage Two moves to new city home

After performing exclusively for five seasons at the College of Lake County, Stage Two is making the move to its own space. Stage Two will occupy the first floor of the former Durkin & Durkin's clothing store located at 11 N. Genesee St., in Waukegan.

With this move, Stage Two will become Waukegan's first professional theater company. 11 N. Genesee has a tradition of housing some of the finest entertainers. The ballroom on the third floor was once a vaudeville stop where Lake County residents were entertained by Jack Benny and others.

Stage two, will now have the opportunity to expand its season to four shows and extend the length of each run to five weeks. The new and easily accessible theater will provide other advantages including a convenient, well-lit, ample parking lot and intimate seating with greater comfort.

In addition to Stage Two's usual schedule of Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday matinees, Thursday evening performances will be presented during the 1990-91 season. Not only will this added evening give the growing audience a greater opportunity to see Stage Two productions, but it will also provide a price break.

Individuals who attend Thursday evening performances will "Pay what you want." This innovative payment method was noted by Artistic Dir. Bryan W. Simon when he visited several Toronto theater groups. State Two hopes the "Pay what you want" Thursday performances will encourage anyone to attend live theater, even if financial resources are limited.

Stage Two's theater at 11 N. Genesee will be the home for other arts programs as well. In addition to the four shows produced by Stage Two during the 1990-91 season, film festivals, staged readings of new works, small jazz, blues, and classical concerts, and an invitation to other theater groups to perform are planned for the facility.

These additional programs will help to insure that the new performance space is used to its fullest potential and to provide Lake County with more arts programs. For additional information and a subscription brochure call the box office at (708)662-7088.

CLC's SetSail Sept. 15

A seven-day Carnival Cruise for two headlines a list of dream vacations and other items to be auctioned at the "SetSail" dinner auction on Sept. 15, at the College of Lake County. All proceeds from "SetSail" will benefit the college's Talent/Leadership Scholarship Fund.

A variety of luxurious getaways are available in some of the nation's "hot spots." Condominiums in both Tarpon Springs and Pine Island, Fla. are among the one-week vacations being offered. Other getaways can be had in either Southpointe, South Carolina or Lake Tahoe.

For something even more exotic, a house in the Grand Cayman Islands is available. The makings for a "build your own" vacation might be the favorite choice, with two airline tickets for anywhere in the United States.

Several weekend getaways are offered locally, and often these serve as "mini-vacations" for busy people.

Weekend packages at the Chicago Hilton, the Palmer House, the Ritz-Carlton, the Hyatt Regency, the Swiss Grand Hotel, the Marriott Courtyard, and the Hawthorn Suites Hotel are some of the choices available in the "SetSail" auction.

A successful bidder may also enjoy a much needed escape at a quaint "bed and breakfast" in Springfield.

As a special treat, perhaps a sunset cruise for eight on a pontoon boat, or even a moonlight cruise for six on a private 42-foot yacht might be more desirable.

These dream vacations are just a few of the many items up for bids. Tickets for "SetSail" are $100 per person or $1,000 for a table of 10. The Talent/Leadership Scholarship program was established to recognize students who demonstrate exceptional talent or leadership in co-curricular activities, career, vocation, community service or athletics. ## Retreads safe enough

Thousands of school buses throughout the country use retread tires as a safe and economical alternative to higher priced new tires. The use of retreaded tires allows school districts to have more money for teachers' salaries and student programs, all without sacrificing safety or performance.

Some interesting facts to know from the Tire Retread Information Bureau:

- Retreads are absolutely as safe as comparable new tires and can be driven at the same speeds as new tires.
- They are processed according to Federal Safety Standards.
- Retreads are available in high performance sizes in all tread designs.
- With proper maintenance and care, retreads can give you about the same mileage as new tires, and they look just like new tires.

Once you have retreads installed on your vehicle, be certain the wheels are properly aligned and check the tire pressure regularly to add miles to the life of the tires.

Not all waxes are equal

Many commonly-used wax products can actually dull your new car's mirror finish. They use a combination of wax or silicone and a harsh, abrasive polish which causes tiny scratches. The scratched paint can't reflect light as well as new paint. This results in an overall reduction in shine. Your new car should not be exposed to these abrasives. It just needs washing and a follow-up with a good abrasive-free wax.

The best waxes were made with imported Carnauba wax which grows on a select group of palm trees in Brazil.

As the costs of gathering and importing this natural wax skyrocketed, chemists created cheaper "wax-less" substitutes. Abrasives were then added to these new products.

Since the change from Carnauba to man-made synthetics happened slowly, only the astute consumer realized he was getting less shine for his money. Today, it is difficult indeed to find an abrasive-free car wax.

HYACINTH 2

FLOOR PLAN

You can't help but notice - the master suite is positively huge in the Hyacinth 2. In fact, it covers about the same area as the combined family room/kitchen area.

With about twice as much space as the average walk-in closet, the suite's oversized stroll-through closet is almost big enough to park a car. And another closet is located just outside the door of the larger closet. Inadequate storage space won't be a problem here. In addition to its size, the walk-in has another unusual and sure to be appreciated feature - a window at the far end provides natural light in what would otherwise be the darkest part of the closet.

Wedged in one corner of the suite, an oversized bathtub invites long leisurely baths to soak away the stresses of the day. Toilet and shower are tucked into a separate cubicle, and twin basins are nestled behind a unique freestanding wall.

This is also a home with plenty of places to eat. In addition to a formal dining room, it has a sunny eating nook. And for quick snacks and meals-on-the-run, family members can simply pull up a stool along the combined cooking island/eating bar. The big country kitchen offers plenty of elbow room, counter space and cupboards. A pantry offers still more storage. Filled with flowering plants and herbs, a garden window adds color and charm. Triple sliding glass doors in the family room and master suite brighten both rooms and provide access to a long deck.

Both bedrooms, while small, have ample closet space. The bay window in the front bedroom would be perfect for a window seat or as a display for a doll or stuffed animal collection. These rooms share a bathroom with a combined tub and shower.

Still more storage area is available in the utility room and the garage. The utility room features a built-in ironing board and counter space for folding clothes.

With the exception of its country-style post and railing wrap-around porch, the exterior of the Hyacinth 2 has a contemporary look.

For a study plan of the HYACINTH 2 (330-42), send $5.00 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

Carroll's dramatics help Indians see the light

STEVE PETERSON

Lakeland Newspapers
It happened about 7:45 p.m. Saturday. First down the right-field side, then working toward left. One by one, the lights were turned on at Bowen Park in Gurnee as the first game of the Shoreline League title tilt progressed. Gurnee trailed the Chicago Americans the time 5-4 and faced a do-or-die seventh inning. A loss would give the Americans the Shoreline league title.

But in the end, it was the Americans who were left in the dark. For a rally highlighted by a dramatic home run which paved the way for a 7-6 Gurnee Indians win in game one, which was followed with an 11-0 pasting in the second game.

The night's hero, Tom Carroll, in early April was a baseball player searching for a team.

"I had led the Niles Nuggets in RBIs and batting averages the year before but the coach said there was not a spot on the roster for me," Carroll recalled.

"Then my sister saw an ad in the paper about Gurnee Indians tryouts," Carroll said.

Carroll's troubles were not over. When he reported to the Indians, he found dozens of other newcomers with the same aspirations. "I was one of the last ones to make the team," Carroll said.

On Saturday, Indians managers Chris and Bill Stranowicz were pleased they did not make that cut for it was Carroll's three-run homer in the seventh inning that allowed the Indians to have a shot at the first Shoreline league post-season trophy.

Joe Vocke, who was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player, started the rally with a walk. Bill Stranowicz then singled and Carroll stepped up to bat. He clubbed what he later explained was a low inside fastball over the centerfield fence. It was Carroll's third hit of the night. He had a second inning double and a single in the fourth.

The blast was the sixth of the year for Carroll, a Lindenhurst resident.

"I was just trying to keep the rally going," Carroll said.

For Carroll, the title was the fifth in his baseball career. His high school team in LaCrosse, Wis. won four state titles in a row. He played his college ball for St. Norbert College in Green Bay, Wis.

Despite the dramatics, the Indians' work was not done. Brad Sutter, who also had a three-hit game, blasted a Vocke pitch to right center to bring the Americans to within one at 7-6. But Vocke, who came on in relief for starter Vince Gawerecki, got the next two hitters on groundouts and the third on a pop out to first baseman Bill Stranowicz.

Gurnee looked like it would be in for a long night as the Americans took a 5-0 lead after three innings.

A four-run fifth inning rally gave hope for the Indians' loyal fans. Catcher Jim Liebert, who threw two Americans runners out trying to steal second, showed his offensive might with a homer to start the inning. Chris Stranowicz, Vocke and Bill Stranowicz singled and Rob Wilkenson walked with the bases loaded to account for the other tallies.

"I felt pretty confident," co-manager Chris Stranowicz said of the pre-title night mood. The Indians finished the tourney winning six of seven games.

The Indians turned in some gems on defense in the nightcap. In the Chicago second, the Indians caught an Americans runner in a run-down. The Indians turned a pitcher-to-third-to-first double play in the third.

Gurnee carried its momentum into the second game with Vocke, Wilkenson, Bill Stranowicz all singling and Liebert and Carroll doubling for a 4-0 lead.

Gurnee doubled the margin in the fourth. Gawerecki and Chris Stranowicz singled, Wilkenson walked and Bill Stranowicz singled.

Bill Stranowicz sent the Indians home early in the fifth inning. His three-run homer to right field sparked the celebration.

Third quarter scores pace Vikings in debut

Two third-quarter touchdown passes helped the Lake County Vikings start its second season off on the right foot Saturday night in Gary.

The Vikings downed the Golden Bears 13-0 on the strength of the TD passes thrown by quarterback Sam Toia.

Toia's first pass was an eight-yarder to Reggie Johnson. Tom Vigres added the extra point for a 7-0 lead. For Johnson, the catch was especially meaningful as the game was being played in his hometown.

Later in the quarter, Toia found Andy Reeves open from 40 yards out for a 13-0 margin. The extra point try was missed.

"Defense was where it should be but we still have to smooth things out on offense and quarterback," Lake County Vikings Coach Al Clark said.

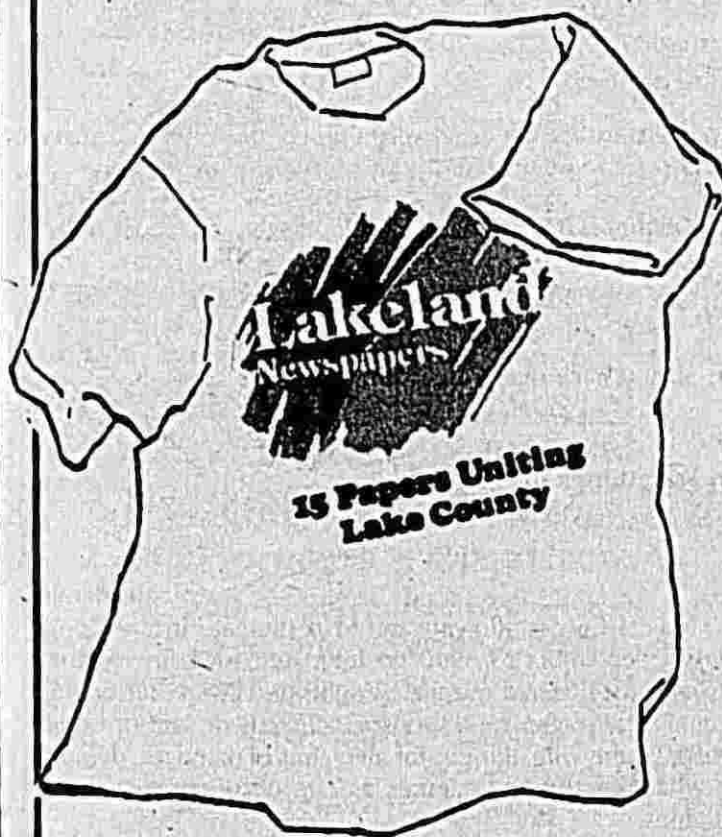

The mistakes, though, are based on inexperience, the coach said.

The Vikings are preparing to battle Tinley Park at Galey Stadium in Chicago in a 7 p.m. game Aug. 25.

Solid Waste Agency hoping for members

PAT CHRISTENSEN
Lakeland Newspapers

Larry Clark, an attorney for the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) gave a presentation to members of the Round Lake Park Village Board on the agency's plans and the benefits of joining.

The trustees made no decision on the matter, referring it back to the full board for discussion at the next regular meeting on

Aug. 28

One of the things Clark stressed to the board is that the charter members are the only ones who can change the basic structure of agreement for the agency. The general membership can vote to change the by laws, but only the charter members, those that join now, during the initial stages, can affect any of the basics of the organization.

A concern of many smaller communities in Lake County to the initial agreement is the initial membership fee and the possibility that an additional levy could be placed on members if there are not enough communities willing to join. But Clark said that, although the potential for levies exists, levies could only be imposed by a majority vote of the agency membership.

Each community, regardless of size, he said, would have one equal vote in the agency. Although the votes are equal, the initial buy-in fee is not. A larger community will pay a higher initial fee than smaller communities. But the percentage of a village's budget might not be the same.

The agency is looking at a four-prong approach to the problem of solid waste management for the county, involving waste reduction, composting and recycling, incineration, and landfills. The agency intends to invest its money in "proven technology," according to Clark, "and technology that has been proven as environmentally safe as possible. But there is a risk in every single portion of our plan." He said that the agency felt that the risk involved was reasonably minimal, however.

Communities concerned over the location of landfills or incinerators being located in their areas, advised Clark, should look to zoning and local regulations to protect themselves if necessary. "There is a state statutory hearing process if anything like a landfill, incinerator or a transfer station is to be placed within municipal boundaries," he explained. "The municipality never gives up power."

Municipal power and independence appears to be one of the major stumbling blocks among many smaller communities considering joining SWALCO. The agreement is now "in the discussion stages," according to Clark. "We would expect a very high percentage, based on the percentage that agreed to join the planning agency. 31 percent of Lake County municipalities, comprising 96 percent of the county population, joined in that initial effort. We would hope that membership of the agency itself would be in excess of 90 percent."

Whether the smaller communities will join or not will be a decision made after a certain inspection and discussion period has passed, but once the base group has joined, other communities joining late will be paying a different, higher fee with fewer benefits. That, at the moment, may be SWALCO's biggest selling point, but whether it is adequate to net them the 90 percent participation they want remains to be seen.

Grayslake's Lucas attends convention

Charles J. Lucas of Grayslake joined representatives of every state, the Dist. of Columbia and Europe at the Reserve Officers Assn.'s 64th Branch Pick-Up

The Village of Lake Villa will be picking up branches and other shrubbery at curbside throughout the village limits Aug. 27. The village will then run the branches through a chipper and make the chips available to any interested residents who call the village hall to reserve an order. Another pick-up will be conducted in September.

Annual National Convention in Atlanta, Ga.

Lucas, a retired Colonel in the U.S. Army assisted in making decisions about the 120,000-member ROA programs, projects and positions, and discussed legislative strategies relating to national security.

Lucas has previously served in office as ROA national vice president and chairman of the army nominations committee. He currently serves as national councilman, vice chairman of the national council steering committee and as vice chairman of the legislative committee.

Back to School!

Strive to make this school year the best one ever

If you think "back-to-school" means that fun time is over, think again. Psych yourself up for September with a promise to yourself to make this year the best ever. And what better way to ensure a bright and successful school year than by planning to mix that serious school work with some serious fun? Everyone knows the downfall of "all work and no play," so begin planning now to become more involved in school and community activities.

Whether it's sports, drama, photography or the school newspaper, you're sure to find an activity to suit your personal style. And when you do, you'll see that being involved is not only an exciting way to learn new skills, but you may even uncover new talents or discover your career potential. Best of all, you're bound to make a few "best friends" along the way. Besides, along with good grades, colleges look for students who are involved with after-school activities and are well-rounded.

If you're not sure exactly what activity to dive into, don't despair. Here are some tips to help you choose an activity and then make the most of it. The first step to choosing an activity is to start with what you like. It's that easy. If it's theater, music or soccer, consider a drama club, choral group or school sports team. If you're a little too shy to jump into the spotlight, consider a "behind the scenes" position. Costume designers, choreographers and scorekeepers are always needed.

Maybe a career in medicine is your style. Then, become a hospital volunteer, delivering mail and gift packages to patients.

Whatever you choose, get involved! Remember, the first step is the hardest, so don't be afraid to take it and get set for the best school year ever!

Back to School!

Start back to school with fit and healthy body

Back-to-school time across America may be exciting for young students, but it also results in a lot of anxious and worried parents.

Many are concerned about their children's health, fitness and eating habits while they're away from home. And medical authorities say there's good reason.

Recent statistics show that about two-thirds of all

American kids between six and 17 cannot pass a basic fitness test. Research also indicates that about one-third of youngsters from six to 11 are at least 20 percent overweight for their age and height.

Parents should give special thought to the contents of school lunch boxes. Some suggestions are to use thinly sliced whole wheat bread for sandwiches, fresh fruit, cut up vegetables, and substitute fruit juices instead of carbonated beverages.

Parents should also encourage their children to drink plenty of water to stay healthy, plus water can relieve hunger pain.

Although it won't be easy, but experts advise parents to show their children at home how to eat slowly and never to rush through their meals. The reason for this is that it takes the human brain 20 minutes to tell the body it is full.

Families should encourage active outdoor exercise and game-playing after school and on weekends. If possible, parents should schedule at least one "family walk" per week.

EYE CARE

News, Views & Questions About Your Eyes

By

Robert L. Epstein, M.D., Director
Illinois Center for Corrective Eye Surgery

QUESTION: Can extreme nearsightedness be corrected?

ANSWER: The ability to treat or correct nearsightedness depends upon the cause and severity of the condition.

Nearsightedness means the eyeballs are elongated preventing light rays from focusing properly on the retina. For most people this elongation ceases at a certain point and their vision can be corrected through surgery or with glasses or contact lenses.

For some people, the elongation never stops. The eye slowly becomes more and more severely nearsighted and will eventually become blind.

In these cases, an ophthalmologist might recommend stopping the elongation process through a surgical procedure known as scleral reinforcement.

During this surgery, a strip taken from the white part (sclera) of a donated eye is wrapped around the patient's eye to reinforce it, preventing the eye from continuing to elongate.

While this procedure has proven effective in stopping the deterioration of vision it should not be expected to correct a person's eyesight.

Hope to 'fast track' luxury townhomes

BILL SCHROEDER
Lakeland Newspapers

Fox Lake trustees accepted in principal plans for development of a luxury condominium resort of 16 townhomes on point of man-made land separating Fox Lake and Nippersink Lake.

Officials are so enthusiastic about the project that will exceed $4 million that they promised to expedite the approval process so ground can be broken in October.

Developers of Leisure Point Resort at the foot of Forest Ave. said they hope to work throughout the cold weather months so the 16 two story units being constructed in four clusters of four units each will be ready for occupancy next spring.

Janet M. Nixon, president of Leisure Point Resort, Inc., and her advisers held their final work session with the Fox Lake Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday night. Chairman Greg Murrey said the project appears ready for public hearing.

Nixon is petitioning for a planned unit development (PUD). Present zoning is B-4 business which accommodates the Captain's Galley restaurant. Nixon, a widow, and her associates will take over operation of the restaurant as soon as they close on the property.

Developers are taking extra care to comply with village requirements, Murrey asserted. Public Works Supt. Stu Hoehne requested installation of curbing and they complied immediately.

Because the property is in the flood plain, the Nixon group said extra engineering costs were incurred to meet all requirements.

Nixon, a resident of Kildeer in south Lake County, said part of the project will be construction of her private home on the extreme end of the point, known as Point Comfort by old-timers, but in recent years known as Leisure Point.

The resort-residential area is being patterned after an upscale residential area Nixon is acquainted with in Florida. She said she will duplicate her Kildeer home in Fox Lake.

Development will be divided into three parts: restaurant, townhomes and the owner's home. Each apartment will include a private boat slip.

Woodland eyes security system Stevenson uses

Woodland School Dist. 50 Board of Education members heard a proposal for a security plan at its last board meeting.

Peter J. Frey, sales manager for Sonitrol Chicagoland North, explained his firm is the only security system with an audio based mechanism.

The system is also equipped with a closed-circuit TV which would monitor the bus area. A system without the audio is also available should the board decide to go that route.

"Nothing is perfect, but it is as close to perfect as you can get," Frey said. "It is like a pair of big ears."

Frey played a tape of a break-in at a Park Ridge school in June. The person monitoring the tape was able to alert police, and a youth was apprehended trying to break into a school after removing an air conditioner.

"In the last two years, we have had five on-site apprehensions," Frey said.

The Sonitrol security system was installed at Stevenson High School a few years ago and Supt. Milton Herzog said there have been no problems with it. Board members were expected to hear the system demonstrated when they visited Rondout School Aug. 24.

"It puts a word out to the kids," Frey said.

Because of a number of false alarms in the past, Woodland staff members are called before Lake County Sheriff's police.

"We have a pecking order as to who gets called," Woodland Supt. Dr. Marlin Meyer said.

A lease agreement charges $50 a month for each building to be monitored.

Responding to a question from board member Mike Brenner, Frey said only one percent of all break-ins involve telephone lines. A cellular system is available as a back-up.

Some 10,000 schools nationwide use Sonitrol systems, which accounts for 35 percent of the firm's business.

Woodland staff members were expected to check Sonitrol's references.

NEUROMAS--A CONSTANT SOURCE OF FOOT PAIN

Morton's neuroma is an incredibly painful condition affecting the foot. A neuroma is a thickening and/or swelling of the sensory nerve of the foot. The pain from a neuroma is episodic in nature, at first usually bearable, a sort of a dull stinging and burning sensation, which radiates to the 2nd, 3rd, 4th or 5th toes. Pain progresses, however, to a spiraling pain of excruciating level that radiates into the involved toes and feels like it's taking over the entire foot. It is often said that sufferers feel compelled to remove their shoes and to flex and massage their toes rapidly to gain relief.

Treatment of neuromas usually consists of conservative therapy such as alterations to the shoe, cortisone injections to the area, orthotic devices, which are custom arch supports.

If none of these measures work, surgery is the desired course of action and is the most effective in resolving the problem.

Should you experience a dull or severe burning pain in your foot especially in the areas of the base of the toes 2, 3, 4 or 5, please feel free to contact Dr. Lee Tisa for a NO COST CONSULTATION* to discuss your condition.
